NIEDRINGHAUS VOTE REDUCED BY TWO MORE

Maples of Christian and Viles of Stone Join Bolters' Ranks, Both Balloting for McKinley, Despite Latter's Protest.

ROLL IS CALLED TWICE WITH THE SAME RESULT

State Chairman's Followers Seek Recess After First Reverse, but Opponents Insist on Second Trial of Strength.

TODAY'S BALLOTS ON SENATORSHIP.

Niedringhaus	65	65
Cockrell	73	73
Kerens	12	12
Pettijohn	1	1
Finkelnburg	1	..
Young	1	..
McKinley	3	4
Baumann	......	1

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Feb. 15.—Thomas K. Niedringhaus lost two more supporters today in his fight for the United States senatorship.

Maples of Christian—originally a Kerens man—and Viles of Stone left the caucus nominee, both casting their ballots for Lieutenant-Governor McKinley.

Brown of Grundy, hitherto a voter for Kerens or Pettijohn, joined Maples and Viles in their support of McKinley. On a second ballot Whitaker, who has been voting for some time for Finkelnburg, also cast his ballot for the lieutenant governor.

The latest Niedringhaus defection increases the bolters' fighting strength to 18 men. McKinley protested that he was not a candidate and urged those who voted for him to support the state chairman. His request was disregarded. Against the objection of the Niedringhaus men, the bolters and Democrats, combined, forced a second ballot, after which the joint session dissolved until tomorrow.

It was on the twenty-third ballot that the Niedringhaus break came. There have been so many previous rumors of a slump from the caucus nominee that those in circulation today were generally disregarded and considerable surprise was manifested when the break came.

Before the result of the vote was announced Lieutenant-Governor McKinley spoke briefly. "I have no lightning rod up," he said. "I believe in party regularity and fidelity. Therefore I should be glad if the gentlemen who balloted for me would withdraw my name and vote for the man who was made the party's caucus nominee."

Maples, defending his vote, asserted that the lieutenant-governor is the best man for the senatorship. He remarked, he said, when McKinley declined the lieutenant-governorship; yet he finally accepted it at the party's behest. Viles declared that he was carrying out his constituents' wishes.

The ballot resulted: Niedringhaus, 65; Cockrell, 73; Kerens, 12; Pettijohn, 1; Finkelnburg, 1; Young, 1; McKinley, 3.

A motion for the dissolution of the joint session was defeated by a vote of 97 to 57.

The twenty-fourth ballot was identical with the twenty-third except that Representative Walmsley changed his vote from Senator Young to Senator Baumann of Kansas City, while Whitaker left Finkelnburg to vote for McKinley.

"SURELY WARMER" PROMISED

After Mercury Reached 2 Below at 7 A. M., Weather Man Gives More Cheerful Prospect.

The zero weather, like the Japanese, turns defeat into victory when it is least expected. Tuesday was supposed to be the last day of King Zero's reign, but he got back Wednesday. Now he is said to be leaving again.

SAY! IS THIS THE COAL OFFICE?—WELL, SEND OUT ONE OF YOUR MINES!

The forecast is:

"Fair Wednesday night and probably Thursday. Rising temperature. Winds becoming southerly. Minimum temperature Wednesday night, 10 to 15 degrees above zero."

The unexpected cold came from a high area that got slightly diverted in its path from the southern Rocky mountains. The colder area turned eastward and brought zero weather back to much of Kansas, Nebraska, western Missouri and Iowa. Low temperatures prevailed in Texas, New Mexico and Arizona.

East of the Mississippi valley there was considerable snow Wednesday morning, but to the westward the sky was clear.

BRYAN ONCE HELPED HIM.

Rev. J. R. Smith Is Conducting Revival Services Here.

Rev. James R. Smith of Chicago, a noted evangelist, is conducting revival services at Plymouth Congregational Church, which will continue for two weeks. He is assisted by Evangelist Joseph Jamison and a number of local workers who will visit interested persons at their homes. Mr. Smith is at the head of the Burr mission in Chicago. His former home was in Salem, Ill., where William J. Bryan was his neighbor. He established his first mission in Lincoln, Neb., where he had the co-operation of Mr. Bryan. The services are largely attended and considerable results are expected.

CUPID'S MESSAGE CAME IN STRAINS OF A VIOLIN.

MRS. CARL THOLL.

Two who spent their summer at the World's Fair—Carl A. Tholl, violinist, and Miss Madeline Etterson, Red Cross nurse—agreed St. Valentine's day to keep their Fair memories together. Without a word to any one he asked to be excused from an engagement at the Aschenbroedel Club and she left home for downtown. They met and were married by Justice Robert Carroll. They will live at the home of Mr. Tholl, 2620 North Twenty-first street.

Mrs. Tholl is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Etterson, 1624 North Nineteenth street. She was graduated from the Protestant Hospital Training School in September, 1903, and later entered Red Cross work. While a student at the school she became acquainted with Mr. Tholl. It gave them much pleasure when both received assignments at the World's Fair grounds.

He was a violinist in the orchestra of the Tyrolean Alps and within the sound of his music she ministered to the injured and sick that were brought to the Emergency Hospital.

He is an instructor at the Beethoven Conservatory and is prominent in musical and Masonic circles, being a Scottish Rites Mason.

JACK TAYLOR IS EXONERATED

Pitcher Cleared of the Charge of "Throwing" St. Louis-Pittsburg Game.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Pitcher Jack Taylor of the St. Louis National League baseball club today was exonerated by the board of directors of the association of a charge of "throwing" the game between St. Louis and Pittsburg in the latter city, July 30, last.

On the second charge upon which he was tried, however, that of violating the constitution and his contract with the St. Louis club, he was found guilty and was fined $300.

He was ordered not to play baseball until the fine had been payed.

USED SHORTSTOP'S NAME, POLICE SAY

John T. Stengel Arrested by Police for Impersonating George Hulswitt.

John T. W. Stengel, aged 24, who says he is from Louisville, Ky., was arrested at the Southern hotel at noon Wednesday by the police who accuse him of impersonating George Hulswitt, shortstop of the Philadelphia National League baseball club, and trying to obtain money on the ball player's name.

Stengel registered as George Hulswitt at the Southern hotel Sunday and was known about the hotel as the ball player until the police revealed his identity.

Stengel, according to the police, says he lost large sums of money playing the races and became broke. He decided, so the police say, that it woud be easier to raise money on the name of a baseball player as nearly everyone knows professional ball players by name and few know them personally.

He decided, too, that Hulswitt was probably as little likely to be known as any knight of the diamond he could think of. He knew he could impersonate the Quakers' shortstop much easier than he could Wee Willie Keeler, Napoleon Lajoie or Jimmy Collins.

The police say Stengel made his first attempt in New Orleans, when he went broke there a few months ago during the racing season. He signed Hulswitt's name to a check for $30. When he reached St. Louis he went to the sporting goods house of A. G. Spalding & Co., 708 Pine street, Monday and introduced himself to "Tommy" Cahill as Hulswitt.

Cahill, who is a lover of manly sports, was delighted to meet the shortstop, and readily sold him a sweater and a bat and took his check for $3.75.

Tuesday, however, Cahill was surprised when the supposed Hulswitt returned with a check for $400, and asked Cahill to accompany him to a bank and identify him.

Cahill declined, investigated the disposition of the small check and found it dishonored. Then he "tipped" Desmond, and the chief dispatched Detective Richard Joyce to the Southern and Stengel's arrest followed.

Stengel is 24 years old and a decorator by trade. He says he was engaged to marry a young woman in North St. Louis last year, but when he went to pieces on the races he lost his bride, too.

HUSBAND BECAME BOARDER.

Mrs. Geusz Files Answer to Divorce Proceedings.

Mrs. Annie E. Geusz filed Wednesday her answer to the divorce proceedings brought recently by William Geusz. She denies his allegations, and makes cross charges of desertion, non-support and threats. She says after their separation March 10, 1899, he returned to her house as a boarder Feb. 25, 1904, and as such boarder, with an understanding that he was to go and do as he pleased, continued to live at her house until Oct. 25. She says he paid his board, but did not contribute to her support or the support of their children.

SKRYDLOFF ACCUSED OF COMMANDING FROM SHORE

Vladivostok Fleet's Chief Is Said to Have Slept on Opportunities When He Might Have Raised Port Arthur Blockade.

ST. PETERSBURG, Feb. 15.—In view of the continued attacks on Gen. Kuropatkin, the Novoe Vremya proposes a commission of retired officers to pass judgment on the general.

LONDON, Feb. 15.—A dispatch to a news agency from St. Petersburg says the Russian third Pacific squadron sailed from Libau today.

PARIS, Feb. 15.—French special correspondents sent to meet the returning Russian officers from Port Arthur tell of a bitter feud between the land and naval officers.

While the most feeling is between the heads of the two branches there is dissention among the army officers themselves, and also within the naval ranks.

Probably the most virulent charges are those of Admiral Lockinsky, commander of the torpedo defenses of Port Arthur, who denounced Gen. Stoessel and Admiral Alexieff in the same breath. Lockinsky is quoted as characterizing Vice-Admiral Stark and Rear-Admiral Withoeft as "bed-chamber admirals who are seasick whenever afloat."

Lockinsky charges Vice-Admiral Skrydloff with comfortably establishing himself on shore at Vladivostock instead of attempting to break the ineffective blockade of Port Arthur. In addition he says that when he arrives in Russia he will make his charges before a courtmartial and not allow himself to be made a scapegoat as has Rear-Admiral Ouktomsky.

The army officers habitually refer to the fleet as the "frightened fleet," and the naval officers flatly charge that Port Arthur need never have fallen but for the discord and cowardice of the Russian land commanders.

Lockinsky cites a number of instances of the unpreparedness of the Russians for the conflict, as well as several specific instances of conflicts of authority and demoralization occurring during critical engagements.

BRUNETTE SAID BLOND; FINED FOR "MASHING"

Kerson Nurian, Accused by Black-Eyed Girl, Fails to Prove Mistaken Identity.

ARTIST'S PENALTY IS $50

Ethel Smith, Studying to Become Dancer, Asserts He Followed Her.

Kerson Nurian, who testified he was an artist, was fined $50 in the City Hall Police Court Wednesday morning after his denial that he was guilty of "mashing," as charged by pretty, black-eyed Ethel Smith, recently of Mount Vernon, Ill., who is in St. Louis studying to become a professional dancer.

Miss Smith only came to St. Louis a few days ago, and told Judge Tracy that she was boarding at Twenty-second and Olive streets with a friend of her mother's. Tuesday she came downtown and was looking at the show windows when she was greatly annoyed by a man who passed her frequently, making eyes, smiling at her and even coming to her side as she looked into the show windows and nudging her. When exasperated beyond reason, she called a policeman, and Nurian was arrested. Miss Smith said she did not know the street, but the policeman said it was on Olive, near Twelfth street.

Nurian, who is also a brunette, denied the charge, and said that he had been walking behind Miss Smith, watching to see that she came to no harm from a blond young man who was annoying her. He asserted it was a case of mistaken identity.

Nurian said he lived on Kensington avenue and had lived at the same place for two years, but declined to give the number. He gave a check to his attorney, Harry Whelan, for the fine, costs and attorney's fee, but later decided to appeal the case.

CHILD TELLS HIM OF WIFE'S ARREST

George Salg Finds Mother of Two in Custody on Embezzlement Charge.

ADMINISTRATOR'S ACTION

Prisoner Says Amreihn Agreed to $218 Rent Balance in Installments.

Mrs. George Salg, 2715 McNair avenue, was arrested Tuesday evening and taken to the Four Courts to answer to a charge of embezzling $218, preferred against her by Bernard Amreihn.

The prosecuting witness says he was the administrator for an estate left to Mrs. Salg and three other heirs; that this estate consisted of property at Jefferson and Lynch avenues, for which Mrs. Salg had been collecting the rents, and that recently the property was sold for $10,000 to Fred Reichel of 1617 Franklin avenue, who is Mrs. Salg's brother. In the final settlement of the estate, the payments being made into the Probate court. Amreihn charges that Mrs. Salg was short $218, due for rents collected.

Mrs. Salg says in reply to these charges that she had an agreement with Amreihn by which she was to pay him the balance due for rents in monthly payments of $10 each, and that, in addition, she had turned over to him a gold bond for $100.

She was arraigned Wednesday morning in the Court of Criminal Correction and held under $800 bond, which her husband is trying to secure.

The couple have three children, the eldest being 12 and the youngest 5, and the first that the husband knew of his wife's arrest was when he went home Tuesday evening and was told by his children that "a man had come and taken mamma away."

IN JAIL 6 MONTHS WITHOUT HEARING

Assistant Circuit Attorney Finds Glass Had Been Exonerated and Gets His Release.

Robert Glass, who was acquitted of a charge of robbery, Oct. 31, 1904, but was immediately rearrested on a charge of receiving stolen property, was released from the city jail Wednesday morning through the efforts of a fellow-member of the Masonic lodge, whose name did not enter into the proceedings.

Glass was arrested six months ago after two watches stolen from Richard Coffer and Thomas Connelly, lodgers at the R. R. Y. M. C. A. at Twentieth and Walnut streets, had been found in his possession.

Glass at once told of receiving the watches innocently from August Fenwick, who with Albert Villeaux was convicted of the robbery Oct. 31. Both exonerated Glass, but Assistant Circuit Attorney Hancock caused the new warrant to be issued and he was remanded to jail and had not since been given a hearing.

His liberation resulted from an investigation of R. M. Johnson, Mr. Hancock's successor, when his attention was called to the case. Judge Withrow ordered the charge stricken from the docket.

FIRE STARTED DURING GAME.

While N. Schwegler, who lives alone at 4313 Obear avenue, was playing pinochle in the saloon of H. Bader at Grand and Florissant avenues at 11 o'clock Tuesday night, an excited friend rushed in to tell him his house was on fire.

Schwegler ran out and found the report was true.

The fire started in the kitchen and made a thorough wreck of the house and its contents.

At 6 o'clock Wednesday morning a pedestrian, passing along the street, saw flames amid the debris, and turned in another alarm. The second fire was put out quickly. The damage aggregates about $300. The origin of the fire is not known.

"Dairy" Maid Is Unconcerned Over Recital of Arrests

MISS LAURA BUCHHOLZ.

DRINKS CAME EASY TO OLEEZY OLOWSKI

Saloon Man, Presenting Bill, Was Referred to Wife—and Then!

OGLESBY FLOURISHED "GUN"

She Promptly Got a Warrant and He Is Out the Price and $14.85 Fine.

It cost Norman Oglesby, an East St. Louis saloonkeeper, $14.85 to try to collect a liquor bill of $9.15, and then he did not get the money.

One of his patrons is Oleezy Olowski. Mrs. Oleezy Olowski notified Oglesby not to sell Mr. Oleezy Olowski any more liquor. Mr. Oleezy Olowski insisted on appearing at the bar and demanding drinks and Oglesby not only sold the drinks, but sold them on credit.

When the bill amounted to $9 Oglesby demanded payment. Mr. Oleezy Olowski said all right; he had the money at home. So he took another drink, which made the bill $9.15, and started to get the money from Mrs. Oleezy Olowski.

But Mrs. Oleezy Olowski refused to give it up. She said Mr. Oleezy Olowski should not pay the bill. Mr. Oleezy Olowski so reported to Oglesby and Oglesby, placing a revolver in his pocket, went to see Mrs. Oleezy Olowski about it.

Mrs. Oleezy Olowski refused to pay; Oglesby flourished the revolver. Mrs. Oleezy Olowski and several other women in the house screamed and ran, but Mrs. Olowski continued firm in her refusal to pay.

Oglesby, discouraged, left the house. So did Mrs. Oleezy Olowski, who went direct to Justice McKane's court and swore out a warrant, charging Oglesby with disturbing her peace. He appeared in court Wednesday, pleaded guilty and paid the fine of $5 and costs of $9.85.

MISS WERTZ TELLS MAYOR HER REASON

In Letter Coroner's Official Stenographer Explains Why She Tendered Resignation.

Miss Marguerite A. Wertz, who resigned her position as official stenographer in Coroner Baron's office, sent a letter Wednesday to Mayor Rolla Wells stating her reasons for resigning.

The letter is in part as follows:

"As Dr. Jules Baron, coroner, has commented through the press upon my resignation and only states one side of the case, I desire to state my side to you, as I believe that Dr. Baron has placed me in a false light.

"I was forced to resign on account of the treatment I received from Dr. Baron and his assistant, Dr. Lloyd. He endeavored to force me to resign, held up my salary and adopted every means that he could think of and the only way I could see out of it was to resign.

"As you know full well, during the pas year the coroner's office has had almost treble the work it ever had before. If Dr. Baron or any one else desires any of my notes transcribed, I will transcribe them at the legal rate of 45 cents per page, but most emphatically I will not transcribe them at the coroner's office."

Miss Werts says her resignation followed Dr. Baron's action, in giving her work which she says it was impossible to do in the time he assigned for it. Dr. Baron believes the task was possible.

Sympathy for Rev. McFarland.

Resolutions of sympathy for Rev. Eugene T. McFarland, pastor of the Fourth Christian Church, have been adopted and presented to him by his congregation, also the Second Christian Church and the Christian Ministers' Association of the city. The resolutions spoke in the highest terms of Rev. McFarland's father, the late Rev. M. McFarland, and said that his act of taking his own life was unaccountable, owing to his previous extended illness.

GIRL SMILES OVER NIGHT RAID STORY

Pretty Laura Buchholz One of Those Arrested in Oleomargarine Plant.

INTERESTED AT HEARING

Revenue Officials Narrate Circumstances of Their Raid on Euclid Avenue House.

The story of a night raid on an alleged oleomargarine manufacturing establishment was graphically told before United States Commissioner Babbitt Tuesday afternoon while Miss Laura Buchholz, 19 years old, one of those arrested as a result of the raid, looked on and listened.

The narrators of the story were Ben Westhus, internal revenue collector for St. Louis, and three inspectors, J. W. McGinniss, Ben Selby, Jr., and J. H. Burnett. The prisoners, in addition to Miss Buchholz, were E. C. Anderson, said to be the leader of the oleomargarine manufacturing force; his son, Thomas Anderson, 14 years old, and Walter Hughes and John Frank.

As told in late editions of Tuesday's Post-Dispatch, all were held for the federal grandjury. E. C. Anderson was required to give $500 bond, the others were released on their own recognizance.

The alleged oleo factory was located in the basement of the house at 2824 Euclid avenue, which is the home of the five persons arrested. The collector and inspectors testified that they went to this house in the afternoon of Jan. 26, and took an inventory of the colored and uncolored oleomargarine in stock. They said this inventory was not satisfactory, and got a search warrant.

At 8:30 o'clock in the evening they were back at the house. They said they rang the front doorbell and got no answer; then they went to the rear door and knocked and got no answer.

Broke in the Door.

Then they lifted up the trap door leading to the basement door, and knocked at that door, demanding admittance. There was no response, and the four combined their weight, rammed the door and broke it in.

The three men, they said, were busy making oleomargarine into pound packages; the boy was busy collecting and sorting these packages; and the girl was busy wrapping them in oiled paper.

The officers had their inventory of the afternoon, and began to make comparisons with it while they took a fresh inventory. They said they found more colored oleo than they discovered in the afternoon; they found the men, except Anderson, wearing long oilcloth aprons, on which they detected marks of coloring fluid on Anderson's trousers, below the knee, they found distinct marks of coloring matter.

They pried around, and found in the furnace a two-gallon tin can. The label had been burned away, and the can was empty; but the officers said it was similar to the kind in which coloring matter is packed, and they declared it had formerly contained coloring matter.

Having found what they thought was enough evidence, the officers left. Next morning they went back to the house and arrested all who had been working with the oleo when the door was broken in the night before.

Anderson, the only one of the defendants to take the stand, had two lines of defense. He admitted that there was more colored stuff in the basement on the occasion of the second visit than there had been at the first visit, but said the difference was entirely accountable for by the fact that between visits delivery wagon drivers had returned unsold goods and added it to the stock.

But he denied that the difference was as great as the officers said it was. He declared they did not count all the packages of colored goods at their afternoon visit and that the discrepancy between his figures and theirs was due to this mistaken count.

Miss Buchholz was interested, but showed no sign of feeling any alarm. She looked very pretty, very comfortable and very charming as she sat before the commissioner, dressed for cold weather in a natty white sweater, a tan jacket and a green winter hat. Her face was blooming with the color of good health, her eye was bright and clear, and now and then she smiled to show rows of pearly teeth.

She looked every bit the ideal of a poet's dream of a dairy maid in up-to-date garb—even though, according to the statements of officers of the law, her dairy work was with the unromantic oleo, in which the lowing kine, the glinting milk pail and the [illegible] had nothing to [illegible]

WAR OF BILLIONS IS PROMISED BY INSURANCE FIGHT

Gould, Harriman, Kuhn-Loeb, Belmont and Other Mighty Fortunes Likely to Be Factors in Equitable Life Contest.

BATTLE BITTEREST EVER WAGED BY FINANCIERS

Accusation of Frivolous Personal Habits and Enormous Loans to Friends Back of Efforts to Drive Young Hyde From Control.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Personal scandals and allegations of business depravity never dreamed of by the public are being uncovered in the Equitable Life row.

"Jimmy" Hyde controls the $478,000,000 quick assets of the Equitable Life. He loans it to friends in enormous wads. The company only has $100,000 of capital, and by charter provision can only pay 7 per cent or $7000 a year in dividends. Stock in the company, therefore, is not specially attractive as an investment, but access to the enormous sum of $478,000,000 makes one a power in the world of finance.

President Alexander of the company dislikes Mr. Hyde as a business man and thinks less of his personal set. He and all the other officers of the company say Mr. Hyde must quit the company or they will resign. It is not known that Mr. Alexander has friends to whom he wants to loan the company's millions.

It is said Mr. Hyde is willing to get out of the company if he can sell at proper figures his 51 shares and the 19 more shares of stock he controls. The Standard Oil Co. is said to be considering the purchase of it.

Be all this as it may, the row—and that is the only word for it—exceeds in bitterness any struggle that has ever developed among kings of finance in this country.

The demand made by Mr. Alexander, president of the society, that Mr. Hyde, its vice-president and owner of the majority of the capital stock, shall consent to a change in the voting power by which the 500,000 policy holders in the company shall have a voice in the election of its directors, is only a small part of the real struggle.

The real point of the war is the desire that Mr. Hyde shall retire from the vice-presidency of the company and from all active participation in the management of its affairs.

Notified to Retire.

Mr. Hyde has been served with a notice that, unless he retires at a meeting of directors set for tomorrow, 34 of the executive heads, constituting practically the whole active management of the immense corporation, will give up their positions in the company. Should these men resign the company would be left with only subordinates in charge.

When it is remembered that the Equitable Life Assurance Society has in ready cash and securities, which can be immediately turned into such, $478,000,000, and when it is also remembered that some of these men who have threatened to resign have been with the company since it was founded, in 1859, by Henry B. Hyde, father of the young man whom they now insist must resign, the motives which impel them to take this now extraordinary step can readily be understood to be exceptional.

One of these motives is the private life of Hyde. Old men in the company who were his father's friends declare that were he living he would not tolerate in a position of responsibility in the company any young man, even his own son, who had led the frivolous life credited to young Hyde. Another objection to him is the charge that he has formed financial associations of a character that is detrimental to the Equitable company.

They say that he has gone into huge speculative schemes, or has allowed himself to be used by promoters of such schemes, and that in consequence his one-man control of the $478,000,000 of the Equitable society is a crowning injustice to the half million policy holders.

Not only have these men determined to oust Mr. Hyde from the company, but they have also agreed among themselves that Jacob H. Schiff, head of the great banking house of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., must retire as a member of the finance committee of the Equitable Life. Mr. Schiff is one of the directors of the Equitable Life, and he is one of the few known supporters of young Hyde in the present gigantic struggle.

It is stated that the reason they object to Mr. Schiff continuing as a member of the finance committee of the Equitable Life is that during the past year his firm, Kuhn, Loeb & Co. sold to the Equitable $22,000,000 of bonds.

He Sold to Himself.

The personal honesty of Mr. Schiff is not impugned in the slightest degree, but it is asserted that in these transactions he acts as both buyer and seller. The fact that President Alexander and his associates have taken this stand against Mr. Schiff is of itself indicative of the tremendous magnitude and severity of the internal strife in the Equitable Life.

In connection with this stand against Mr. Schiff, Mr. Alexander and his associates have also taken battle against Edward H. Harriman, the greatest single railroad power in this country. Mr. Harriman is a director in the Equitable, and like Mr. Schiff, is favorable to the cause of young Hyde.

It is charged that Mr. Harriman does not himself own a single share of stock in the Equitable company. The five shares

ANTI-BETTING BILL IS TIED UP--WHY?

Investigation Develops That Measure Prohibiting Bookmaking Has Not Been Engrossed.

THIRD READING IS DELAYED

Chairman of Criminal Jurisprudence Committee Says Mistake Has Been Made.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Feb. 15.—Investigation developed today the fact that the bill to prohibit bookmaking and poolselling, which is a substitute for the present breeders' law, has not yet been sent to the printer.

Still more important is the discovery that, according to the House records, the bill has not yet been sent to engrossment.

The committee's substitute appears among the bills up for engrossment in the House calendar today.

This bill was engrossed by unanimous vote last Friday.

Inquiry by a Post-Dispatch reporter as to the failure of the printer to send back the engrossed bill so that it could be taken up for third reading and final passage, disclosed that he had never received the bill.

The engrossing clerk also said that the bill had never come into his possession.

When these facts were laid before him, Representative Viles of Stone County, chairman of the committee on criminal jurisprudence, said: "The substitute for House bill No. 11, which repeals the breeders' law and enacts legislation to stop bets on horse racing, was engrossed Feb. 10. I asked for and secured a suspension of the rules to have this done. There is a mistake some where and I shall look into the matter at once."

Representative Haynes of Saline County, one of the most pronounced advocates against racetrack gambling on the floor of the House, declared that he would call the matter officially to the attention of the members of the House.

"I have been wondering," he said, "what happened to the antipool selling bill. At most it does not take longer than two days to engross a bill. I understand this bill was sent to engrossment nearly a week ago."

Chief Clerk Russell, when asked about the matter, said: "If the bill was ordered to engrossment it should have been printed long before now. The House calendar for today would indicate that it has not been engrossed."

The records of the docket clerk show the bill was ordered engrossed and printed, but the clerk did not know why it was placed on the calendar today.

Shortly before the joint session convened, Representative Haynes arose and called attention to the irregularity of the records with regard to the breeders' law substitute bill. Mr. Haynes declared that as the bill had been engrossed the House clerical records should be corrected to so indicate.

There was no objection and Speaker Hill ordered that the bill be taken from the calendar.

Haynes then moved that the substitute bill be given precedence in printing over all other measures.

This was adopted without dissent.

Chief Clerk Russell says he will forward the substitute bill to the printer sometime today.

But the delay is costly and the error of the clerical force has given the racetrack crowd undue advantage. It is now considered probable that the repeal bill may not be taken up for passage this week.

THINK IT OVER.

Something You Can See in Any Restaurant or Cafe.

A physician puts the query: Have you never noticed in any large restaurant at lunch or dinner time the large number of hearty, vigorous old men at the tables; men whose ages run from 60 to 80 years; many of them bald and all perhaps gray, but none of them feeble or senile?

Perhaps the spectacle is so common as to have escaped your observation or comment, but nevertheless it is an object lesson which means something.

If you will notice what these hearty old fellows are eating you will observe that they are not munching bran crackers nor gingerly picking their way through a menu card of new fangled health foods; on the contrary they seem to prefer a juicy roast of beef, a properly turned loin of mutton, and even the deadly broiled lobster is not altogether ignored.

The point of all this is that a vigorous old age depends upon good digestion and plenty of wholesome food, and not upon dieting and an endeavor to live upon bran crackers.

There is a certain class of food cranks who seem to believe that meat, coffee, and many other good things are rank poisons, but these cadaverous, sickly-looking individuals are a walking condemnation of their own theories.

The matter in a nutshell is that if the stomach secretes the natural digestive juices in sufficient quantities any wholesome food will be promptly digested, if the stomach does not do so, and certain foods cause distress, one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal will remove all difficulty, because they supply just what every weak stomach lacks, pepsin, hydro-chloric acid, diastase and nux.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do not act upon the bowels, and in fact are not strictly a medicine, as they act almost entirely upon the food eaten, digesting it thoroughly, and thus gives a much-needed rest and giving an appetite for the next meal.

Of people who travel nine out of ten use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, knowing them to be perfectly safe to use at any time and also having found out by experience that they are a safeguard against indigestion in any form, and eating, as they have to, at all hours and all kinds of food, the traveling public for years have pinned their faith to Stuart's Tablets.

All druggists sell them at 50 cents for full-sized packages, and any druggist from Maine to California, if his opinion were asked, will say that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the most popular and successful remedy for any stomach trouble.

Pretty Young Woman "Dedicates Life to the People;" Fears Not to Address Street Corner Crowds

"THEN I LOOKED UP TO THE CEILING, NOW I LOOK INTO THEIR VERY SOULS"
"I LIKE TO APPEAL TO IMAGINATION."

ANITA TRUEMAN, THE UNIVERSE.

Anita Trueman, of "The Universe," Preaches the Gospel of New Thought; With the Death of Henry George When She Was 16 Years Old, Inspiration Came to Her to Carry On His Work.

BY ROSE MARION.

Anita Trueman, The Universe.

That is what she registers.

She is a young woman who arrived in St. Louis Monday, and will remain several weeks to preach the gospel of the New Thought, as well as that of the other reforms for which she stands, chief among them, single tax and international peace.

This is how she looks: Blond, yellow hair that fluffs and serves as an understudy for the droop of a veil; big blue eyes, with almost a baby look; light colored eyebrows that mark and do no more; a large mouth that smiles and then smiles again as if it meant to please, though the world were as cross as unpaired sticks; broad white teeth, accustomed to publicity because of the smile; a nose that aims at the stars and suffers for its ambition by having always the tilted look; ears that hide in the fluffy hair; slender white hands, with nails much longer than their breadth, hands that gesture when broad facts are stated and that play with eyeglasses or whatever else is near when conversation is in progress; height, that of the average woman; figure, almost slight; style, not remarkable except in the arrangement of the hat and the veil, latter the best note in a costume in which blues and grays both made combinations and contended for rights.

Voice without the sound of a rant and only the trace of a coax, almost a reasoning voice that makes you forget the baby look and count it earnestness, that leads you to count the smiles of the mouth as just so much interest in your particular life.

Neither an American voice, nor that of an Englishwoman, but a combination of the best in both. After you have heard you understand this:

"I have dedicated my life to the cause of the people."

There is certainly something suggestive of a lisp that might have been in her voice but which has been conquered until it only evidences itself in a weight that hangs to her words.

Young women of 23 who have decided to dedicate their lives to the cause of the people have never had place among "those I have met." Which perhaps increased the interest with which I awaited Miss Trueman's explanation.

She had been talking casually as the artist gave thought to the light that came into the south window of the New Thought room in the Koken building, and had said: "'To be ready always,' that's my motto; that and to be daring, daring enough to do that which you are not sure you can do."

That isn't the talk of ordinary girls, and I continued to listen, hardly caring to interpolate questions so well did she tell me just that which I wished to know.

"I was born in Cleveland, O.," she said, "but for 10 years lived in England.

"My family is English and those 10 years of my childhood gave me the British stamp. We lived in Brooklyn after we returned to America until I was 16. I went to the schools of Brooklyn.

"Father and I have always been chums. We read a great deal together and made a special study of social economy. We were both admirers of Henry George. When I was 16 he became a candidate for mayor of Greater New York. Father and I entered the campaign heart and soul.

"I made speeches on street corners and before mass meetings. When we were full of hope Henry George died. I had met him and on the very day of his death I was to speak at a meeting at which he was to be present.

"His death and his work gave me an inspiration. It was then that I decided to dedicate my life to the cause of the people."

Miss Trueman went to a Boston school of oratory and perfected herself in the art of public speaking. Since then she has spoken much for various reforms.

"Unity and breadth" is her platform.

"So many persons have found one thing which is right and they let that discovery conceal the others. If I can only bring each to see the right of the other one. That is one of my hopes. I want people to take an interest in all that is good and to study that which comes before them.

"If I look at a child or a flower or a book I study about it and see away and beyond. Objects to me are not just things, they are expressions.

"In the language of my beloved master, Thomas a Kempis, 'There is nothing so small and abject that it represents not the goodness of God.'

"These words of his I love also, 'If thou wert inwardly pure and thoroughly cleansed then every creature would be to thee a living mirror and a book of holy doctrine.'

"The New Thought of which I am to speak here in St. Louis does not require that one be a member of any church, neither does it prohibit him from any kind of religious membership."

I wanted to know how she held an audience. She was not averse to explaining.

"I used to look at the ceiling, now I look into their very souls. I make them believe that I am interested in them. There is a difference. If the artistic person is to be pleased his taste must be considered; for the intellectual mind there must be strong argument based on actual fact with every detail exact; for the emotional there must be that which will appeal to their emotions; for the practical one must plan common sense statements that convince.

"I use the objective plan long in use in schools. I like to appeal to imagination. One may talk and talk without effect, but let some object suggest a feeling and the talk is forgotten, while the feeling lives.

"In my peace lectures my thought is patriotism, plus peace. We have patriotism enough, we Americans, that is drilled into us all our lives. We feel an outburst when we see the American flag. That feeling I have utilized.

"I was presented with a handsome peace flag—a peace flag is the flag of a nation, bordered about with white. I place this flag on the stage and usually say nothing about it until someone questions me.

"That's the way to make people think. Most people think only that which is placed before them. They won't think deep thoughts until they are made to do so by questioning; then they often go down far.

"If you can arouse thought with objects so much the better.

"Also I try variety. To the New Thoughters I sometimes talk single tax, to the Single Taxers, new thought."

Miss Trueman will speak Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the New Thought room, Koken building, 715 Locust street. She will speak at the North Side Church, 2900 North Fourteenth street, Sunday evening, and will begin a series of lectures Monday afternoon on "The Psychology of Character" in the Koken building and another upon "The Psychology of Success" at 3907 West Belle place Monday evening. These will be continued on Mondays and Thursdays for perhaps three weeks, at the end of which time Miss Trueman will depart to attend a Single Tax congress in the South.

FINGERS FROZEN; WAITS ON DOCTOR

Policeman Complains Dr. Specht of North End Dispensary Delayed Patient 40 Minutes.

Special Policeman Nick Roach found Fred Foley, a teamster, at Eleventh and Mallinkrodt streets with the fingers of both hands badly frozen, took him to the North End Dispensary for treatment Wednesday morning and now makes charges against Dr. Specht, the physician on duty at the dispensary.

Roach telephoned to the Four Courts Wednesday morning that he had arrived at the North End Dispensary with the injured man at 6:20 a. m., and that he was then informed by Dr. Specht that patients could not be treated until 7 o'clock, as the dispensary's daily work was not supposed to begin until that hour. Consequently, Roach charges, the man with the frozen fingers was compelled to suffer without treatment for 40 minutes.

Foley is a teamster for a planing mill at Leifingwell avenue and Dodier streets, and on Tuesday evening started out to deliver a load of slabs to an address near Sixteenth street and Washington avenue. He did not reach his destination, and was found Wednesday morning by Special Policeman Roach and Theodore Niedringhaus. He had been drinking all night, it is stated, and the fingers of both hands were so badly frozen that they bled. After being treated at the North End Dispensary he was sent to his home at 2612½ North Market street.

Dr. Specht, the physician in charge of the North End Dispensary, states, in answer to the charge that he refused to treat Foley when first brought to the dispensary, that the dispensary is closed from 11 p. m. until 7 a. m., and that this fact is, or should be, known to all police officers.

He says that he was present when the patient was brought in, but that he was not then acting in his official capacity, that he merely chanced to be there and was eating his breakfast, and that he declined to treat the case before 7 o'clock.

He states that Foley was kept waiting nearly an hour, when he should have been taken to the Central Dispensary, as it is understood that all cases must go to the Central Dispensary between the hours of 11 p. m. and 7 a. m.

WAR OF BILLIONS IS PROMISED

with which he qualified as a director were furnished him, it is said, by young Mr. Hyde. This five-share certificate was transferred to Mr. Harriman, registered on the books of the Equitable in Mr. Harriman's name, was then indorsed by Mr. Harriman, and later returned to Mr. Hyde and placed in the Hyde strong box, it is asserted.

It is charged that Mr. Harriman's sole interest in connection with the Equitable is to borrow for his railroad companies as many millions as they need for improvements and betterments.

August Belmont and George J. Gould, both directors in the company and supporters of Mr. Hyde, are charged with having selfish motives.

It is declared that there is a movement on foot headed by Mr. Schiff, with Mr. Belmont as a possible associate, to form a syndicate to purchase the interest in the company owned by Mr. Hyde for a sum variously stated at from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000. Standard Oil interests are said to be behind Mr. Schiff in this effort. If this should turn out to be correct, it would place the great Equitable company in control of the Rockefellers and Rothschilds.

Hyde Won't Surrender.

At tomorrow's meeting directors of the Equitable will elect a full set of officers of the company, from president and vice-president down. If Mr. Hyde says the word he can get the vote of a number of directors, perhaps enough to keep him in the vice-presidency. But the Alexander forces believe that he will step down and out in view of the pressure they are prepared and ready to exert. Mr. Hyde's friends say he will never surrender.

Stories from the inside show that some high old times have been experienced at recent directors' meetings.

Last Thursday the idea of amending the charter so as to permit policy holders to elect the officers was openly proposed. At this meeting speeches of most extraordinary character were directed against young Hyde. One director is reported to have said: "If suppose that President McCurdy of the Mutual Life gave a can-can dance, what would happen to the Mutual Life? It would suffer irretrievable loss of prestige and business."

This director referred to the fancy dress ball given recently by Mr. Hyde at Sherry's which wound up, according to a report, with a can-can dance by Rejane, a French actress.

Another director at the same meeting is reported to have said: "If Mr. Hyde, with his well-known habits of living, were exemplar of life insurance officer, policy holders of the Equitable would be justified in coming down town as a mob and storming the building."

"Jimmy" Hyde is a young society bud. He affects the French. He dresses like a Frenchman, clothes, beard, hair and linen. He talks French in preference to English when he can. He is one of the founders of the French literary society of Columbia University, and brings Frenchmen here to lecture before the society. Many noted French visitors are entertained by him. He recently drove a public coach three times a week from the Waldorf to Ardsley. Reggie and Alfred Vanderbilt drove it the alternate days. The coach was ultra swell, though once in a while plain ordinary folks patronized it, but were never mistaken for those they were aping.

Jacob H. Schiff, who is recognized as the strongest man on the Hyde side, had a conference with President Alexander at which Mr. Schiff, is was said, tried to make some amicable adjustment of the trouble that would save young Hyde the humiliation of being driven out of the company that his father had founded. Mr. Schiff was unsuccessful.

It was declared early this morning that to secure peace young Mr. Hyde is willing to surrender his control of the Equitable Life and consent to the policy-holders electing directors by proxy or by a direct vote, but that under no condition will he retire from the vice-presidency of the company at the demand of Mr. Alexander and the other executive heads.

He proposes to fight the plan for his retirement to the utmost capacity and the capacity of the greatest lawyers in this country whom he has retained to protect his interests. Among the lawyers whom he has engaged for this purpose is Elihu Root, former secretary of war; John G. Johnson, noted corporation lawyer of Philadelphia; Mr. Watson of Philadelphia, and great corporation lawyers John J. McCook, Charles Beattie, Alexander and William Gulliver of the firm and Alexander and Green.

President Alexander has issued a long letter telling why he wants policy-holders to elect the officers of the company. It says:

"A life insurance company is in no sense a proprietary company, it is not a business conducted by its owners for their personal gain. It is a great and quasi charitable trust.

"Many of the policy-holders contribute annually to the society in payment of premiums a sum exceeding the annual dividend ($7000) upon the entire capital stock. Many of the policy-holders are insured in an amount exceeding the entire capital stock. The holders are the beneficiaries of this trust. They are the real parties in interest and the substantial owners of these funds. They have no voice in the management of the company. They do not elect the directors. They do not choose its officers. They have no right to protest or even acquiesce in the change of ownership of stock control."

LOVED TO TELL FORTUNES.

Mrs. E. W. Kells, known in East St. Louis for the past few months as Madame de Kells, fortune teller, died Thursday night at St. Mary's Hospital from heart disease.

Mrs. Kells was 78 years old, and told fortunes because she loved the work. Her daughter, Mrs. G. A. Mielink, is the wife of a wealthy manufacturer in Toledo, O., and sent money to her frequently. Her son-in-law sent a large sum to the hospital to pay for her treatment, and ordered that the body be sent to Toledo for burial.

Mrs. Kells came to visit the World's Fair last summer, and after the close of the Fair went to East St. Louis, where she established a business as a fortune teller.

CURE YOURSELF WITH GOOD BLOOD

It Will Carry Health and Strength Into All Parts of Your System and Drive Out All Disease.

Aeg-An-Iurn (Egg and Iron) Makes Good, Rich Blood.

Good blood means good health. You, yourself, can tell when you have it flowing through your veins. You feel brimful of life, warmth, energy, ambition and hope.

Without it you are tired, cold, pale, listless, indifferent, easily discouraged and disposed to magnify your troubles.

AEG-AN-IURN (egg and iron) fills your veins with good red blood which forces health into all parts of you and drives out all disease.

If you suffer from any disease of any vital organ, that organ must be first restored to strength—its tissues must be rebuilt—before you can be cured.

AEG-AN-IURN rebuilds the tissues of the nerves and all the organs by its nourishing, blood-building properties.

It cures constipation and all bowel troubles, indigestion and all stomach troubles, liver, bladder and kidney troubles, female weakness and diseases, catarrh and all catarrhal diseases, all nervous diseases, neuralgia, rheumatism and all diseases caused by an impoverished or impure condition of the blood.

It puts your blood in condition to destroy all disease germs and eradicate all poisons.

AEG-AN-IURN is for sale by druggists at $1.00 a bottle. One bottle works wonders.

Sixty Years of Wedded Bliss

S. C. Thomas and Wife Celebrate their 60th Anniversary and Attribute their Vigorous Health and Activity to the Regular Use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

Pavillion, Sept. 14, 1904.

"I am in my 83d year, and preserve my health and keep my strength up by the use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey. I have taken it for several years past, and think it the grandest medicine for old people in the world. My wife and I have just celebrated the 60th anniversary of our marriage, and the way I now feel I expect to live and enjoy life for many years to come."—S. C. Thomas.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

Is the purest, most nourishing, and wholesome tonic-stimulant and invigorator known to science, and it can be retained by the weakest stomach after all other remedies have failed. The record of this health-giving, life-prolonging medicine covers a period of more than fifty years, during which it has effected over 4,000,000 cures, and in the United States alone nearly 5000 hale and hearty old men and women who have passed the century mark cheerfully admit that they owe their vigor, health and advanced years to the continued and regular use of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

It is prescribed by doctors everywhere in combating disease, and it is used in all the leading hospitals of the country. It purifies and invigorates the blood, tones up the heart, builds up and renews weak, wasted and diseased nerve, brain and muscle tissues, and gives new life, vitality and strength to every organ of the body. For all stomach troubles and as an aid to digestion, it is invaluable, and it is a positive cure for pneumonia, consumption, grip, nervous prostration, diseases of the throat and lungs, and all run-down and weakened conditions, whether due to worry, overwork or sickness.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey contains no fusel oil, and is the only whiskey recognized by the government as a medicine.

Sold by all druggists and grocers, or direct, in sealed bottles only. Price $1. Insist on the genuine, and see that the "Old Chemist" trade-mark is on the label. Illustrated medical booklet and doctor's advice free. Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Bride of Newspaperman Who Was Married This Morning

MRS. JOHN B. HENDRICKS

Murillo Photo.

Miss Alberta Agnes Landzettel, daughter of Mrs. Anna Landzettel of 1328 Blair avenue, and John B. Hendricks, a well-known newspaper man, were married Wednesday morning at St. Joseph's Church, Eleventh and Biddle streets, Rev. Father Etten performing the ceremony. The wedding was at 9 o'clock and was followed by a breakfast at the home of the bride's mother. An informal reception will be given the bridegroom and bride Wednesday evening from 6 to 10 o'clock.

Mr. Hendricks has been a member of the Post-Dispatch reportorial staff for several years. His bride is well known in North St. Louis society.

At the wedding the bridegroom was attended by George O'Malley, while the bridemaid was Miss Alberta Landzettel, a cousin and namesake of the bride, of 1440 Sullivan avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Hendricks will live for the present at 1328 Blair avenue.

IN SOCIETY

Notices of social events intended for publication in the Sunday Post-Dispatch should reach the Post-Dispatch office not later than noon of the Friday preceding.

The wedding of Miss Otille Cramer and Conrad Besch was solemnized Wednesday morning at the residence of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Cramer of South Thirteenth street. The handsome colonial residence was prettily decorated with bride roses and palms. Miss Cramer had no attendants and the guests were limited to the immediate relatives of the bride and bridegroom.

The service was read at 11 o'clock by Dr. Jones. Miss Cramer wore a beautiful bridal robe of white chiffon veiled in lace and her tulle veil was secured by valley lilies. She carried a bouquet of the same blossoms, with a fringe of lace ferns.

After a bridal breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Besch departed for the south, where they will spend a month. Upon their return they will go to housekeeping in a new home on California avenue.

Women Subject of Debate.

If there isn't a battle of words at the next meeting of Turkey Hill Grange it will not be the fault of the subject, which is "Should a Wife Know All of Her Husband's Business." J. H. Patterson, at this meeting, will read a paper entitled "The Farmer as a Business Man," and Maude Miller will read an essay on "Home."

Address by Dean A. C. Peck.

Dean A. C. Peck of Denver, Colo., will address the Men's Club of the Washington and Compton avenues Presbyterian Church T[illegible]day evening after the monthly meeting and dinner of the club.

Musicale for Miss Kelley.

The members of the Apollo Club will give a musical program at the home of Mrs. J. L. D. Morrison Wednesday evening. The guest of honor will be Miss Florence Kelley, the beautiful young granddaughter of the hostess, who has been the recipient of many charming attentions since her arrival in St. Louis during the holidays.

Miss Kelley will accompany Mrs. Morrison to New York the latter part of February, where they will arrive in time to attend several functions given by Miss Kelley's mother, Mrs. Alfred Kelley.

St. Valentine Party.

Miss Mable Westlake was the hostess at a pretty St. Valentine card party given at her home in Washington boulevard Tuesday afternoon. After the game of euchre the prizes were awarded to Mesdames George Willard Teasdale, McConklin, Roth and Moreno. The rooms were decorated in crimson and white, St. Valentine's colors. Some of Miss Westlake's guests were: Mesdames Paul Brown, B. F. Givens, Phil Chew, J. W. Fristoe, Walter Boogher, Edw. T. Campbell, S. C. Edgar, Lee Meriwether, Joseph Wheless, Kate Roth, McConkin, Moreno, Coppen.

Miss Moody Entertains.

Miss Elenor Moody entertained several friends with a Valentine party at her home. She was assisted by her mother. The rooms were decorated appropriately for the occasion. Some of the guests were, Messrs. and Mesdames William Dee Becker, H. E. Farrell; Misses Edith Delaney, Hannibal, Mo., Adele Armstrong, Gertrude Ballard, Ella Lyons, Anna Force, Lily Clark, Hazel Thompson, Zeida Slack, Minnie Slack; Messrs. Eugene Campbell, Tom Anderson, Tom Baskett, William Moody, Richard Blanke, Dave Dalton, Will J. Thornton, Arthur Crandall, Roscoe Shaw.

Mrs. Florence Longstreth, accompanied by her two young daughters, Misses Florence and Virginia Longstreth, and her son, Bevis Longstreth, will depart very shortly for New York, where they will spend several days before sailing for a Mediterranean tour to extend until spring. Mrs. Longstreth will lease here Cabanne home until her return.

Gone to Cuba.

Mr. J. F. Sensenbrenner, the jovial and popular secretary and manager of the C. E. Hilts Shoe Co., has left on an extended business and pleasure trip that includes a visit to Cuba, via Florida and Key West, returning home by way of New Orleans. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Sensenbrenner.

Help Asked for Poor.

Union Mission, at 1920 Franklin avenue, appeals to the public for coal, food, clothing and money to be used in relieving cold weather sufferers. Contributors are asked to notify M. B. Gott, pastor, at 2947 Morgan street, or send their donations direct to the mission.

LOBBY WORK IS BARRED BY MOODY

Attorney-General Issues Edict to United States District Attorneys and Marshals.

ORDER INCLUDES EMPLOYES

Application to Senatorial Contest Is Not Mentioned, but Is Accepted.

United States district attorneys and United States marshals received Wednesday an order from Attorney-General William H. Moody prohibiting them or any of their employes from doing any kind of lobby work before state legislatures.

The order made no specific mention of the Missouri senatorial contest, but its application to that interesting situation is accepted. Therefore it is agreed that, whatever may have been the degree of frequency with which attaches of the district attorney's office and the United States marshal's office have visited Jefferson City, it will not happen gain.

When the senatorial campaign began District Attorney Dyer and United States Marshal Morsey were active participants. It is said that neither of them nor any of their deputies or clerks have recently been conspicuous in the interest of any candidate, and that they are not, in reality, affected by the order.

Attorney-General Moody directs that no attache of the department of justice shall appear before any legislative conference except as a witness. He points out that, while counsel may properly appear before such bodies, it is improper for United States district attorneys, their assistants of others connected with the office to so appear, even as counsel, as on previous unnamed occasions.

Attaches of other deperaments expected to receive similar orders, but none came in their morning mail. So far, the order applies only to the department of justice and treasury employes. Postoffice employes and others are not affected by it.

HIS NOSE IN A VISE

MUNYON'S PAW-PAW AND INHALER CURED HIM

INHALER FREE WITH PAW-PAW

THE ONLY COMPLETE CATARRH CURE

A great sufferer of Catarrh sent me a letter stating that he felt as though his nose was in a vise; that he had been unable to breathe through his nose for nearly three years; that he had had two operations and had been treated by a number of specialists, but every time he caught a cold the air passages of the nose became so greatly inflamed that he was obliged to breathe through his mouth; that there was constant dropping of mucus into his throat and stomach, which produced dyspepsia, insomnia and melancholy; that it had affected his hearing so that he was almost deaf; that he had noticed my advertisement claiming that my Paw-Paw and Inhaler would positively cure Catarrh; and with but little faith he concluded to make one more effort to get well; and much to his astonishment he began to improve after the first day, and although he has been using this treatment less than two weeks he is now able to breathe through his nose, the Catarrhal discharges having almost ceased, and his hearing has been quite restored. This case is similar to thousands of others. Catarrh is not only a vise on the nose and air passages, but is a vice against morals and good judgment. It is a vice to be sick from any disease if you can be cured. It is a vice to have a foul breath if it can be sweetened. It is a vice to suffer with indigestion if you can be cured.

Nothing breeds gloom or unhappiness so surely; nothing unfits a man for business or social life so completely as this dread disease—Catarrh.

Some physicians claim that more than nine-tenths of stomach troubles and nervousness is due to some Catarrhal condition of the system. Specialists of the highest repute declare that Catarrh is a germ disease, and that the only way to cure it is by purifying the blood and killing the germ by local applications.

They are absolutely right. I am proving it every day with my combination treatment. My Paw-Paw positively purifies the blood and drives all Catarrhal poisons from the system.

Paw-Paw makes one eat—it digests all they do eat. It makes one sleep. It puts life and vitality into the weak and debilitated, makes the old feel young.

MUNYON, Philadelphia.

My Inhaler sends clouds of medicated vapor to all the diseased parts that cannot be reached in any other way. It reaches the sore spots, heals the raw places and forms a new membrane. It positively kills all germs and stops all Catarrhal discharges. It sweetens the breath and prevents deafness.

MONEY REFUNDED.

To prove that I have a positive and complete cure for Catarrh I am authorizing druggists to sell the $1.00 bottle of Paw-Paw for 85 cents and to give away my $1.00 Inhaler and a package of Paw-Paw Pills, a package of Catarrh Tablets, absolutely free with each bottle. More than this, to every person that is not perfectly satisfied with this treatment, if they will bring me back their outfit I will refund their money.

A Dollar's Worth Free To Any Rheumatic Sufferer

I ask no deposit—no reference—no security. There is nothing to risk—nothing to promise—nothing to pay, either now or later. Any Rheumatic sufferer who does not know my remedy may have a full dollar's worth free to try.

I willingly make this liberal offer because I know that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy may be relied upon ALWAYS to bring the utmost relief that medicine can. Years before I discovered this remedy, I studied the nature of Rheumatism. For Rheumatism is really

Crystallized Poison

Your blood is always full of poison—the poison you eat and drink and breathe into your system. It is the purpose of the blood to absorb and carry off this very poison. And the kidneys, which are the blood filters, are expected to cleanse the blood and send it back through the system clean, to gather more poison, which they, in turn, will eliminate.

But sometimes the kidneys fail. And sometimes, from some other cause, the blood gets so full of poison that they cannot absorb it all. This is the start of Rheumatism. The poison accumulates and crystallizes. The crystals look like little grains of sugar or of fine white sand. The blood carries them and they increase in size. Then, when it can carry them no longer, it deposits them in a joint—on a bone—anywhere.

The twinge in your leg—the dull ache in your arm on a rainy day—these are the outward signs of the unseen crystals. And the twisted limbs and unspeakable anguish of the sufferer who has allowed his symptoms to go unheeded and unattended for years—these are the evidences of what Rheumatism, neglected, can do.

Rheumatism includes lumbago, sciatica, neuralgia, gout—for all these are the results of rheumatic poison in the blood.

Plainly, the first thing to do is to remove the poison. But this is not enough. The FORMATION of the poison must be stopped, so that nature may have a chance to dissolve and eliminate the crystals which have already formed. Unless this is done there can be no cure—no permanent relief.

I searched the whole earth for a specific for Rheumatism—something that I or any physician could feel safe in prescribing—something that we could count on not only occasionally, but ALWAYS. For the ravages of Rheumatism are everywhere and genuine relief is rare.

I spent 20 years in experimenting before I felt satisfied that I had a certain remedy for this dread disease,—a remedy which would not only clean out the poison, but one which would stop its formation.

Certain Relief

The secret lay in a wonderful chemical I found in Germany. When I found this chemical, I knew that I could make a Rheumatic cure that would be practically certain. But even then, before I made an announcement—before I was willing to put my name on it—I made more than 2000 tests! And my failures were but 2 per cent.

This German chemical is not the only ingredient I use in Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure—but it made the remedy possible—made possible an achievement which, I doubt not, could have been made in no other way.

This chemical was very expensive. The duty, too, was high. In all it cost me $4.90 per pound. But what is $4.90 per pound for a REAL remedy for the world's most painful disease?—for a REAL relief from the greatest torture human beings know?

I don't mean that Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure can turn bony joints into flesh again—that is impossible. But it will drive from the blood the poison that causes pain and swelling, and then that is the end of the pain and swelling—the end of the suffering—the end of Rheumatism. That is why I can afford to make this liberal offer—that is why I can afford to spend the FIRST dollar that Rheumatic sufferers, the world over, may learn of my remedy.

Simply Write Me

The offer is open to everyone, everywhere, who has not tried my remedy. But you must write ME for the free dollar package order. I will send you an order on your druggist which he will accept as gladly as he would accept a dollar. He will hand you from his shelves a standard sized package and he will send the bill to me. There are no conditions—no requirements. All that I ask you to do is to write—write today. I will send you my book on Rheumatism beside. It is free. It will help you to understand your case. EDNA MAY AND KYRLE BELLEW NEXT WEEK

Edna May will come to the Olympic Theater next Monday night. The sale of seats for her engagement will begin tomorrow morning. Miss May is coming as the star of "The School Girl," an English musical piece which St. Louis is now to see for the first time, though its fame has come on far in advance of it. "The School Girl" has been so well liked in London and New York that Miss May has made a rather big reputation in it, and it is to be one of the notable engagements of the late winter at the Olympic. It is an exceptionally big piece, and for this reason the performances will begin promptly at 8 o'clock. There will be but one matinee, on Saturday, beginning at 2 o'clock.

Kyrle Bellew and E. M. Holland, two stars of different spheres of acting, but of equal magnitude, will shine together at the Century Theater next week, starting Sunday night, presenting that whimsical and oddly-named drama, "Raffles, the American Cracksman." Mr. Bellew, as the gentleman burglar, and Mr. Holland, as the retired detective who runs down "artistic criminals" like the Cracksman "for sport," presented the Hornung-Presbrey play for over six months in New York last season. Neither Mr. Bellew nor Mr. Holland ever before appeared in such unique or well-fitting roles. Raffles is said to be the suavest, nerviest, most lovable, and irresistible villain that ever trod the boards, and there never was a more engaging stage Hawkshaw than Capt. Bedford. Their game of hare and hound is said to be exciting, yet at times wonderfully droll and fascinatingly subtle. The supporting company is the same seen at the Princess and Savoy Theater, New York, and includes Clara Blandick, Lorena Atwood, Hattie Russell, Olive Wyndham, Mognon Beranger, Frank Connor, Frank Roberts and Frank McCormack.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND DON'T KNOW IT

COPYRIGHT,1899,DR.KILMER&CO.

To Prove What Swamp-Root, the Great Kidney Remedy, will do for YOU, Every Reader of the "Post-Dispatch" May Have a Sample Bottle Sent Free by Mail.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease; therefore, when through neglect or other causes, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and need attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root the great kidney and bladder remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root will set your whole system right, and the best proof of this is a trial.

53 COTTAGE ST., MELROSE, MASS.
DEAR SIR: JAN. 11th, 1904.

"Ever since I was in the Army, I had more or less kidney trouble, and within the past year it became so severe and complicated that I suffered everything and was much alarmed—my strength and power was fast leaving me. I saw an advertisement of Swamp-Root and wrote asking for advice. I began the use of the medicine and noted a decided improvement after taking Swamp-Root only a short time.

I continued its use and am thankful to say that I am entirely cured and strong. In order to be very sure about this, I had a doctor examine some of my water today and he pronounced it all right and in splendid condition.

I know that your Swamp-Root is purely vegetable and does not contain any harmful drugs. Thanking you for my complete recovery and recommending Swamp-Root to all sufferers I am." Very truly yours,

I. C. RICHARDSON.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but it promptly cures kidney, liver and bladder troubles, the symptoms of which are—obliged to pass your water frequently night and day, smarting or irritation in passing, brickdust, or sediment in the urine, headache, backache, lame back, dizziness, poor digestion, sleeplessness, nervousness, heart disturbance due to bad kidney trouble, skin eruptions from bad blood, neuralgia, rheumatism, diabetes, bloating, irritability, wornout feeling, lack of ambition, loss of flesh, sallow complexion, or Bright's disease.

If your water, when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settling or has a cloudy appearance, it is evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is for sale at drug stores the world over in bottles of two sizes and two prices—fifty cents and one dollar. Remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

SPECIAL NOTE—In order to prove the wonderful merits of Swamp-Root you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured. The value and success of Swamp-Root are so well known that readers are advised to send for a sample bottle. In sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure to say you read this generous offer in the St. Louis Daily Post-Dispatch. The genuineness of this offer is guaranteed.

CHARLES HAWTREY CHATS OF PLAYS

Interviewer Found the Comedian Cold-Bound at His Hotel.

When a Post-Dispatch man went to have a talk with Mr. Charles Hawtrey at the Southern Hotel yesterday he was introduced into a room containing what appeared to be a huge brown bear. A movement on the part of the bear, however, revealed the well-known features of the popular comdian. Mr. Hawtrey does not believe in Spartan heroics in facing below zero weather. Clad from head to foot in fur cap and coat, he defies the worst Boreas can do.

"What's it like out?" asked the actor. 'Beastly, isn't it? This is fierce weather. What?' "Any other complaints, Mr. Hawtrey?" Mr. Hawtrey laughed. Every one knows Hawtrey's laugh. It is a sort of concentrated and restrained essence of humorous appreciation. He does not guffaw. He laughs inwardly. "Restrained laughter is peculiar to Englishmen," explains Mr. Hawtrey. "I suppose that is why Americans say we have no sense of humor. There are some raconteurs who think you are dull unless you show all your gold fillings."

"How about American appreciation of humor? Do American audiences laugh as readily as London audiences?" he was asked.

"Bless you, yes," said the apostle of charity. "They just eat the piece. 'A Message from Mars' gets just as many laughs here as it did in London. But then, you see, it was written by Mr. Ganthony, who is an American.

His Experience With the Ecentric Shaw.

"No, I've not definitely settled upon any new play. I have several under consideration. That reminds me of a good story, though it's against myself. I was within reasonable distance of giving Bernard Shaw's play, 'You Never Can Tell,' its first production in London. Cyril Maude of the Haymarket had had the play under consideration, but gave it up, and then Shaw told me the piece was at liberty and that he would read it to me if I liked. I was delighted at the chance. He's an awfully clever chap. Well, Shaw came. He began by saying:

" 'Some days I think this play is a masterpiece and other days I think it is absolute rubbish. Today I feel that it is rubbish, and I would rather not read it.'

"I persuaded him to proceed. It is a perfectly delightful piece, and full of humor. Arnold Daly has captured New York with it. When he had finished reading the play we talked over conditions, and, while I agreed to some, I refused others. But he was firm, so I said that I was sorry I could not think of producing it.

" 'You can't?' exclaimed Shaw, jumping from his chair and shaking my hand. 'Thank you so much. You've taken a great load from my mind.' "

Mr. Charles Hawtrey is the son of the Rev. Hawtrey of Slough, England, and grandson of the headmaster of Eton, England's most famous educational establishment for the sons of the nobility. Hawtrey was educated at the hardly less famous school of Rugby, and immediately went upon the stage after graduation. His first great success was made in "The Private Secretary," which he adapted from the German, "Der Bibliotaker." As lessee of the Comedy and Avenues theaters in London he continued a whole series of successes, which he has now extended to America.

In a "Message from Mars" Mr. Hawtrey enacts the part of a selfish man who is visited in his dreams by a mysterious messenger who demonstrates to him that he is the most selfish egotist that ever happened. The effect of the dream is so strong upon awaking that the selfish man goes forth and outdoes Carnegie in philanthropy. He gives away his fur coat, he empties his pockets and finally brings into his house a crowd of poor folks who are the victims of a fire.

A remarkable thing is the effect of the play upon the audience. In London the beggars and loafers got wise. Outside the Avenue at curtain fall there was always a crowd of hardluck people who sought to profit by the mood of the dispersing audience. Amateur actors who are working up dramatic performances for charitable purposes couldn't do better than present "A Message from Mars." The impulse to give is irresistible.

ODEON STOCK COMPANY PUTS ON A FITCH PLAY.

Miss McIntosh of the Odeon Stock Co. is playing perhaps the best part of her Odeon career this week—that of Mrs. Lorrimer in "The Moth and the Flame," the Clyde Fitch drama which the stock company began Tuesday night. Miss McIntosh as a society woman of many divorces but an undimmed willingness to take on the matrimonial yoke for another try, is admirable. Her gowns are stunning, her acting is pleasing and natural, and her reading of the clever lines that the playwright has given this part is all that could be desired.

Miss Vaughn, who plays Marion, the moth who gets wise in time and barely dodges the flame, is also well cast. Her work was close to that of Miss McIntosh in point of excellence on the opening night.

Miss Love, as the charming but flirtatious Ethel, dresses beautifully, acts well, and is very, very attractive. Miss Johnson, as Jeanette Gross, the first moth and the one that got badly singed, is also deserving of compliment.

The men did not show to good advantage on the opening night. The chief fault with them was that they did not know their lines. They stumbled and halted through several of the best scenes, and once or twice in the church scene, and again in the last act, there was a painful hiatus. It is probable that this fault will be corrected by Wednesday night, however, and that the play will run more smoothly.

The Odeon management has given a good setting for the play. Real pews, borrowed for the occasion from a downtown church, are used in the second act, and as far as the stage mechanic and artist are concerned, the setting is excellent. But the solemn shadows are too solemn and the hurried exit of the audience just before the critical moments at the altar is too entirely unlike the real thing to complete the illusion. It would be hard to conceive anything more improbable than that a group of gaping auditors at a church wedding would hurry away while a frantic woman was trying to stop the ceremony; they would stay to the last possible moment, determined to see it through.

The play and the manner of its presentation are worth seeing. The defects of the first performance are temporary only, and in spite of them the stock company shows it is capable.

Millions Know

That Liquozone Does What Medicine Cannot Do. A 50c Bottle Free.

There are at least three million homes in America which know from experience the value of Liquozone. Some of those homes use it simply to keep well, as we do. But tens of thousands have lives that were saved by it.

Yet some remain sick with a germ disease while all of those millions know that Liquozone cures. Some still cling to drugs for what drugs never can do. They are wronging themselves. Their own friends—their own neighbors—can tell them the way to get well.

We ask those sick ones to write us. We will buy for each one the first bottle of Liquozone, and pay the druggist ourselves for it. Each is welcome to try it at our expense, then let the results decide about using it afterwards.

Don't try to kill inside germs with drugs, for you cannot. Don't cling blindly to old methods of treatment, used before germs were discovered. Let us prove what this new way means to you.

Not Medicine.

Liquozone is not made, like medicine, by compounding acids and drugs; nor is there any alcohol in it. Its virtues are derived solely from gas, made in large part from the best oxygen producers. The process of making takes 14 days, and requires immense apparatus. At the end of two weeks, we get one cubic inch of Liquozone for each 1250 cubic inches of gas used. The attainment of this product has, for more than twenty years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.

The main result is, to get into a liquid, and thus into the blood, a powerful, yet harmless germicide. And the product is so helpful—so good for you under any condition—that even a well person feels its instant benefit.

This is the product which in the past two years has sprung into world-wide use in the treatment of germ diseases. It is now used by the sick of nine nations; by physicians and hospitals everywhere. It is daily used in millions of homes in America.

We Paid $100,000

For the American rights to Liquozone, and the rights in other countries have sold for proportionate sums. We mention this fact to indicate the value of Liquozone—the value to you. Men have never before paid such a price for any discovery used in the cure of sickness.

We need not tell you that we proved Liquozone well before buying it. For years it was tested through physicians and hospitals, in this country and others. It was employed in every stage of every germ disease; in all the most difficult cases obtainable. With thousands of sick ones, considered incurable, we proved that it did what medicine could not do. Then, and then only, did we pay the price.

Since then we have spent nearly $2,000,000 to make Liquozone known. We have bought the first bottle and given it free to every sick one we learned of. These people told others, and the others told others. The result is that Liquozone is now more widely employed than any medicine ever was. And no one can doubt that it is doing more for sick humanity than all the drugs in use combined.

Kills Inside Germs.

The greatest value of Liquozone lies in the fact that it kills germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. And no man knows another way to do it. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. For that reason medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Liquozone is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. Yet it is not only harmless but of wonderful benefit—better than anything else in the world for you. No one is so well that he cannot be helped by it.

The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter. To the human body Liquozone is exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying—the most needful, the most helpful thing possible. But to germs it is certain destruction; and these facts are true of nothing else in existence.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases; all due to germs or to the poisons which germs create. These are the diseases to which medicine does not apply, for drugs cannot kill inside germs.

All that medicine can do for these troubles is to act as a tonic, aiding Nature to overcome the germs. But those results are indirect and uncertain, depending on the patient's condition. A cure is always doubtful when drugs are used, and some of these diseases medicine never cures.

Liquozone alone can destroy the cause of these troubles. It goes wherever the blood goes, so that no germ can escape it. The results are almost inevitable. Diseases which have resisted medicine for years yield at once to Liquozone. "Incurable" diseases are cured by it. In any stage of any disease in this list the results are so certain that we will gladly send to any patient who asks it an absolute guaranty.

All diseases that begin with fever—all inflammation—all catarrh—all contagious diseases—all the results of impure or poisoned blood.

In nervous debility Liquozone acts as a vitalizer, accomplishing what no drugs can do.

First Bottle Free.

If you need Liquozone, and have never used it, please send us the coupon below. We will then send you an order on a local druggist for a full-sized bottle—a 50c bottle—and will pay the druggist ourselves for it. This applies only to the first bottle, of course—to those who have never used it.

The acceptance of this offer places you under no obligations. We simply wish to convince you; to let the product itself show you what it can do. Then you can judge by results as to whether you wish to continue.

This offer itself should convince you that Liquozone does as we claim. We would certainly not buy a bottle and give it to you, if there was any doubt of results. You want these results; you want to be well and to keep well. Then be fair enough to yourself to accept our offer today. Let us show you, at our expense what this wonderful product means to you.

WORTH $85,000, SHE SUFFERED IN WANT

Woman Who Hoarded Money Removed to Hospital and Search Reveals Fortune.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—"How are you today, Aunt Mary?" asked Miss Susan Mang of her relative, Mrs. Mary Kull of 743 Third avenue.

"Oh, poorly, poorly," moaned Mrs. Kull, who is 73 years old, "but what's a pauper like me to do? No money, no food, no coal in the house in this freezing weather?"

She lay on the old sofa on which she has slept for years. Her rooms, "one flight up" in the big double tenement, were full of broken-down furniture, useless odds and ends and dust.

Miss Mang, much alarmed, hurried to a police station and asked that an ambulance be called. Detective O'Connor returned with Miss Mang.

"My aunt has a little money," she told O'Connor on the way, "but when my uncle died many years ago, her disposition seemed to change. He was a director in a bank. She brooded over his death. She has lived alone and denied herself everything."

O'Connor took one look at the old woman and called an ambulance from the Flower Hospital.

"Chronic gastritis," said Dr. Dominick, after examining the aged patient. "It has been caused largely by lack of proper food. She had best go to some hospital."

"Take the sofa with me, doctor," Mrs. Kull pleaded.

"Oh, never mind the sofa," laughed Dr. Dominick. Mrs. Kull whispered earnestly to her niece and was whisked away to the hospital.

Miss Mang, much excited, asked O'Connor to help. They easily broke up the old sofa, and, in its hollows, they found $2900 in bank bills, tied up in small packages. Much more excited, Miss Mang hurried to the Flower Hospital and learned that her aunt had been sent to Bellevue.

Further search of the rooms revealed an old stocking containing $3140 in bills, a bankbook of the Union Dime Savings Bank, proving that Mrs. Kull has $18,000 in this bank; musty, yellow papers, showing that she owns the house where she resides, worth $35,000, and another tenement in First avenue, worth $25,000.

Mrs. Kull was doing quite well this morning.

HER STARRING CAREER ENDS

President of New York Central Disappointed by Failure of Niece Before Footlights.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Twelve members of the "Iris" company, which left this city three weeks ago to support Miss Bessie Toone through one-night stands in Texas, reached here last night, having stranded at Denison, Tex., Tuesday.

The failure of the venture greatly disappointed William H. Newman, president of the New York Central, and head of 20 roads controlled by the Vanderbilts and Rockefellers. Miss Toone is a niece of Mr. Newman, and it was his money that launched her theatrical starring career.

From the opening night the venture was a decided frost.

Roosevelt's Visit to Little Hungary Forcible Reminder to Foreign Born of Autocratic Official Rule in Native Lands.

HANDLING OF CROWDS LESSON TO RUSSIANS

Made-for-the-Occasion Laws Never More Rigidly Enforced in St. Petersburg Than in Gotham District Visited by Executive.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 15.—President Roosevelt and members of his party who have been spending the greaetr part of two days in New York City, arrived here at 7:30 o'clock this morning.

The President looked the picture of health and not at all fatigued by his active round of festivities in New York.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—Inside Liberty Cafe they had a great time last night, with President Roosevelt as guest of honor.

In the streets outside Liberty Cafe the people were treated to a magnified old-home scene, for seldom, even in St. Petersburg, and probably never in Budapest, was Czar or King surrounded with as many mounted and foot policeman, detectives and secret service men. Likewise, seldom had spectators been forced to obey police-made laws more autocratically.

The wide street was as free as the frigid air during the afternoon. An everchanging crowd filled it, gazed at the decorations and discussed in nineteen different languages the importance of the event.

Six o'clock came and with it came the police—some hundreds of them—afoot and on horseback.

Gen. Trepoff, who rules St. Petersburg, should have been there to learn how to clean streets of peaceful people without using bullets or whips. A squad of mounted police formed across East Houston street and First street and started east. While their horses pranced and drifted sidewise the riders kept shouting: "Move on! Move on!"

At the same time bodies of policemen on foot formed across First and East Houston streets at Avenue A and stemmed the streams of people. Other bodies of policemen marched east along the sidewalks, keeping step with the men on horseback, and shooing the crowd ahead of them.

The people kept in good humor, although they recognized that they were to be disappointed, that they were not to catch as much as a glimpse of "Teddy," as most of the newer generation called the President.

Police Carried Sticks.

The crowd sometimes lagged a little. The mounted policemen spurred their horses onto the sidewalks. Two mounted policemen carried slender sticks, not much bigger than twigs. Threatening to strike with these the mounted policemen kept yelling, "Move on out of here; get out of here." It was instructive to notice that only gray-haired men and women shrank from these twigs. Younger persons laughed as the policemen snapped them.

In 20 minutes East Houston street was cleared for four blocks, from Avenue A to Clinton street. At the limits lines of policemen were drawn, and no one could enter these limits without a special pass issued by Commissioner McAdoo or without an invitation to the dinner.

Women, children and men begged the police in every tongue of eastern Europe to let them pass through. "Go around the block," was the inexorable answer. Many vowed they lived directly opposite "Little Hungary," and once in awhile the police escorted from the barriers one whose home was temporarily barred.

At 7 o'clock only policemen and a score of newspaper men were on the sidewalks inside the lines. No citizen could take one step from a door or hallway. A shopkeeper started across East Houston street to "get a cigar," he explained. Two policemen seized him and hurled him into his shop.

It was 7:25 p. m. when a band, that had been permitted to remain at Avenue B and First street, filled the freezing air with "The Star Spangled Banner." A roar went up from the crowd around the band; the President was approaching.

As if some one touched a key all those at windows of all the houses around felt the same electric thrill. Every window was raised and every human being in them began to cheer. Most of them waved flags or handkerchiefs. Many took heart to climb out on the fire escapes from which the police stationed there had driven them.

Cheers grew immensely in volume as the President's carriage was driven rapidly toward the canopy before the cafe door, with his guard of mounted police surrounding it, and detectives and secret service men following it in other carriages.

When inside the cafe and while the dinner was in free swing Benjamin Taussig, a young man with long, black hair, brushed back from his forehead, and with a pale, studious face, was observed making an attempt to attract the President's attention. Secret Service Officer Klinke spotted him in a second and, dropping his napkin, ran around to the front of the table and threw his arms around the young man. Then, apparently carelessly, but with great firmness he led him to the rear end of the room. Taussig was very angry and greatly excited. He expostulated with great earnestness, but Klinke was insistent that he should not again approach the President.

Several of the diners recognized the young man as a pen and ink artist, who had illuminated the invitations sent to the President. They got up and explained to the secret service men, and then it came out that he merely wished to emblazon the President's name on the crystal of his watch, but in his excitement his efforts to explain his mission added considerably to the secret service man's suspicions that all was not right. The whole thing was adjusted after a few moments, and in fact the incident was over so quickly that few of the diners noticed it.

And thus, in the year 1905, did a President of the United States dine in the city of his birth.

SISTERS OF PROVIDENCE, MOTHER HOUSE, MONTREAL.

HUNDREDS OF CHARITY HOSPITALS HAVE TRIED PE-RU-NA DURING THE LAST YEAR AND FIND IT WONDERFULLY EFFICIENT FOR ALL CATARRHAL DISEASES.

SISTERS OF PROVIDENCE, Mother House, Montreal, Can., write:

"We are happy to say that a number of our sisters of our community have taken Peruna and have derived great benefit from its use."

The winters of Canada are long and severe. Catarrh of the head and throat prevails for at least seven months of the year.

As soon as Peruna was introduced into Canada, its use spread like wildfire, for it exactly met the climatic diseases which abounded.

Catarrh, when it once fastens itself upon the system, is not to be dislodged by the use of local remedies.

A systemic remedy is needed to eradicate the disease. Peruna exactly meets this necessity.

In the whole history of medicine, no remedy was ever devised that has been so universally recognized as a specific for catarrh.

It not only breaks up promptly coughs and colds, but it can be relied upon to permanently cure catarrh in its worst stages and forms.

People who have been afflicted with catarrh for 20 years, have found Peruna to be a prompt and efficient remedy.

Good Shepherd of Montreal writes:

"Having used Peruna for the past few months for our sick and poor, we are happy to say that it has given us great satisfaction."

In a later letter, dated Nov. 7, 1903, the same institution writes:

"We found Peruna a relief in several cases. We can say it is a good tonic and we are very thankful."

The following letter is from Hospital St. Jean, Longue Pointe:

"We have been using your Peruna during the past month and we take pleasure in stating that the results obtained thus far are most satisfactory."

A later letter from this institution is as follows:

"We have used your remedy in a number of different cases and the result obtained is very good."

Convent of St. Laurent, Montreal, writes:

"After using Peruna for two or three months, several members of the community have experienced such good effects that they can recommend its use to others."

The Hospital St. John of St. John, P. Q., writes:

"We are happy to tell you that your Peruna has given us satisfaction. Three patients have tried it, one 68 years old, Renoul Dupuis, afflicted with catarrh, is much relieved, more than he has been for a number of years.

"A young girl, 15 years old, had an obstinate cough, which half a bottle of Peruna caused to disappear.

"As to myself, two bottles have convinced me that Peruna is magnificent as a tonic.

"Through these three cases we desire to make known to the public the efficiency of your remedy."

Social Tragedy

Women Who Brave Death for Social Honors.

In the midst of one of the most brilliant social functions of the season, a noted society woman started suddenly from her chair with a scream of agony and fell insensible to the floor.

A few hours later the distinguished physician told her anxious husband that she was suffering from an acute case of nervous prostration brought on by female trouble, and hinted at an operation. Fortunately a friend advised her to try

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The result was that she escaped the surgeon's knife and to-day is a well woman.

The derangement of the delicate female organism sets every nerve in the body quivering with pain. Headaches, backaches, torturing bearing down pains and dragging sensations make women nervous and hysterical.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was troubled for eight years with irregularities which broke down my system and brought on extreme nervousness and hysteria. I could neither enjoy my meals nor sleep nights, became easily irritated and nervous and very despondent. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound proved to be the only medicine which helped me. After taking the third bottle, my general health began to improve. At the end of the fifth month I was well and could attend to my household and social duties and enjoy life. MRS. CHESTER CURRY, 42 Saratoga Street, East Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Curry, whose portrait appears on the right, is the leader of the Ladies' Symphony Orchestra. The following letter is from Miss Goode, President of the Bryn Mawr Lawn Tennis Club of Chicago:

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I tried many different remedies to try to build up my system, which had become run down from loss of proper rest and unseasonable hours, but nothing seemed to help me. Mother is a great advocate of Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles, having used it herself some years ago with great success. So I began to take it, and in less than a month I was able to be out of bed and out of doors, and in three months I was entirely well. Really I have never felt so strong and well as I have since. AGAINST HEALTH AND MORALS.

Referring to the bill prohibiting Sunday baseball, Representative Watts of St. Joseph said: "We seem to be trying to legislate the people of Missouri up to and through the golden gates."

Representative Watts is mistaken about the direction in which legislation like the anti-Sunday baseball measure, which prohibits innocent outdoor sports on Sunday, tends to send the people. It does not start the people upward, but downward. It sends them to the saloon and the den where vice flourishes and crime is promoted. It sends them to the hospital and the prison.

Ordinarily blue laws which interfere with the rational and wholesome recreations of the people are not enforced by juries, and thus merely encumber the statute books, but if they were enforced they would be a serious menace to the health and morals of the masses of the people, especially of the young who, deprived of healthful, open air sports on the only holiday of the week, would seek hurtful diversions.

When the state preserves order on Sunday and protects all citizens in the right to spend the day as they please, so long as they do not interfere with the rights of others and with the peace and order of the community, it performs its proper function. When it interferes with personal liberty and attempts to enforce the religious code of one part of the people upon another, it exceeds its rightful authority and renders law obnoxious.

A GENEROUS USE OF VICTORY.

In an interview Viscount Hayashi, Japanese minister to the British court, tells how Japan proposes to use her victory, and sums up her policy thus:

"We shall claim no privileges in Manchuria that may not be obtainable by all on equitable terms. If there be any peril to the nations of the Occident in our achieving success in Manchuria it will consist merely in the fact of our greater proximity in this field of enterprise. It may enable our manufacturers, in some respects, to compete on exceptionally favorable terms, but we surely are not to be blamed if we happen to be geographically well placed for trading in our immediate neighborhood."

In other words, the Japanese propose to throw open Manchurian ports to all the world on equal terms. This is the contrary of Russia's policy of monopoly. It is also in exact agreement with American policy in the Orient, adopted in the beginning and followed consistently ever since. Moreover, there is little doubt that the public opinion of the world, except, perhaps in Germany and Russia, will approve and support such a policy.

THE CULT OF THE "BIG STICK."

Not twelve hours after Mr. Roosevelt had directed John Hay to throw the amended arbitration treaties into the executive ash can he was, with characteristic jauntiness, telling members of the New York Press Club how the big stick should be handled in international affairs.

It should be carried, he says, but by no means "brandished." We should always endeavor to speak fairly, honestly and pleasantly of our neighbors—and at the same time endeavor to keep our navy built up and in fighting condition."

What that means is the appropriation of more than $100,000,000 for the navy in the current House bill. With a heavy treasury deficit, with the Panama canal to dig, with worthy needs begging in vain for a fraction of the money thus lavished, we are to put into the navy $6 for every family in the United States.

And of that $6 one-third, according to the statement of Chairman Foss of the House naval committee, is exacted wholly because of the supposed necessity for "protecting" the Philippines.

The money cost of the big stick policy is trifling compared with its effect upon national and international opinion. When, in 1860, Palmerston was plunging Great Britain into huge war expenditures upon the preposterous plea that war with France was certain, Gladstone wrote sadly about the "passionate expectation of war, which no more bears disappointment than if it were hope or love," as fostered by such mighty preparations. Human nature has not changed since then.

What enemy menaces us? What war cloud darkens our horizon that we should dwell in public speech upon the provocatives of war and should concentrate our national endeavors upon the building of so many great fighting machines, obsolete as soon as finished?

Nor do current examples of the cult of the big stick recommend it to thinking Americans. In the Philippines we are ruling a subject nation "outside the constitution." In Santo Domingo we are "administering" foreign ports, upon authority of doubtful constitutionality, for ends of doubtful justice, in a manner which even agents of the government like Judge Abbott can not it seems, accurately describe at the first attempt. And in South America we are in danger of being committed by headlong and headstrong action to the position of universal claim collector against sixty millions of people.

It is well not to "flourish" the big stick. True. Can we even "carry" it so constantly and so conspicuously without contracting curvature of the constitutional spine?

Everybody hopes that all will be well, but if Mr. Roosevelt will study the life and character of Andrew Johnson, and what happened to him, he may learn something to his advantage. Johnson attempted to carry out Lincoln's reconstruction policy, but was opposed by both Houses of Congress. Had he possessed the patience, forbearance and tact of his great predecessor he might have saved a fragment, or more, of Lincoln's scheme. At least he would have saved his reputation as a sagacious statesman and earned an honorable place among American presidents. If Mr. Roosevelt will exercise a large-minded tact and give less play to an egotistic willfulness, he may escape the perils which deprived Johnson of all his great force and left him friendless and discredited.

NOT THE SPIRIT OF PEACE.

When Chief Justice Marshall rendered a decision not to the liking of President Jackson, "Old Hickory" remarked: "John Marshall has made his ruling, now let him enforce it."

President Roosevelt has sent a similar challenge to the Senate on the arbitration treaties. The Senate has amended the treaties, but cannot put them into effect, and the President has tossed them into a pigeonhole.

No one doubts the right and power of the Senate to amend or reject a treaty proposed by the President, nor does anyone doubt the right and power of the President to refuse to put into effect a treaty amended by the Senate. Both must consent to a treaty and co-operate in making it a law.

When the President sent the arbitration treaties to the Senate to be approved, he admitted its power and his own powerlessness without its co-operation. Why the Senate's jealous guarding of powers that are not called in question? If the President wants to handle subsequent arbitration agreements with other nations he seeks to do so only with the Senate's consent. Cannot the President find some better way of dealing with the Senate on a subject of such importance as that embodied in the arbitration treaties than by spitting on its amendments?

Should mere stubbornness and pride of official prerogative be permitted to stand in the way of a great step forward in the progress of international arbitration? This is not the spirit in which the official representatives of the American people, who aspire to the leadership of the world's peace movement, should approach the task of assuring peace for the United States. It is not the kind of spirit which will gain this country the respect and co-operation of other countries.

"Clean Cars and More of Them."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I have read Mr. Beggs' report in regard to the changes he would make provided he became president of the United Railways Co. He could only make one change for the better—that is, "clean cars and more of them." The nine-hour schedule is in force at present, but allowing for stops, they actually run twenty miles between crossings. The conductors are instructed to keep warm cars, be polite, say "fare, please," etc. If those instructions are not obeyed they are discharged. Mr. Beggs cannot do any more. CONDUCTOR.

Insurance Brokers' License.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The following is a copy of an open letter to Hon. O. J. Grace, apropos legislative bill introduced to make non-payment of license to solicit insurance a criminal offense:

"The Insurance Brokers' Association of St. Louis, organized, not incorporated; membership about 65 men, protest; that if they are compelled to pay a state tax because of their occupation, then every person, individual or corporate, who receives compensation for placing insurance, whether that person be a salaried employe of an insurance office, a real estate agent, an employe of same, or in any other employment, shall pay the same tax.

"Furthermore, the man who sel[illegible] a watch, a diamond, a ton of coal, a [illegible] of meat, etc., shall also pay an oc[illegible]tion tax. Insurance companies pay all licenses imposed upon them and a state tax of 2 per cent on their gross premium receipts. Merchants pay licenses and taxes on their merchandise.

"If it is a crime to sell insurance it is a crime to sell merchandise. If we are going from republicanism to autocracy let us go in big jumps. FRANK MAGINN."

Upper or Lower Flat?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I notice the first floor people are making their little kick about the "beautiful," but they forget to mention about the summer time, when they can sit out in front or rear yards to suit themselves and enjoy the cool breezes. When, on the other hand, the poor second floor tenant must swelter and stand it without a kick, for if they or their children take the liberty to go downstairs and enjoy the coolness the downstairs people would pucker up their little noses to have them there.

UNCLE HENRY.

The Immigrant.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Mr. Sidney Averill: While it is undoubtedly true that immigration tends to complicate the labor problems and social conditions of this country, it is equally true that from the time of the discovery of America, mostly poor people from all parts of Europe came here with the intention to better their condition, and by frugality and industry not only succeeded in gaining a livelihood but became a blessing to the land in general and very often the founders of the biggest business and manufacturing concerns. Many, if not most, of the great concerns can be traced back to the humble beginning of some poor and even despised immigrant. If you deny a man the right to come here simply because he is poor and therefore compelled to work, I don't see on what ground you grant the same right to your father or forefather that came here under similar circumstances with similar intentions.

Dead Beats.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Now that our "sap-head" senators are trying to get busy framing anti-smoke, tip and other inconsistent bills, it would be well to take up the subject of "unpaid" bills.

The many people who prey on our merchants is appalling, and there should be some law to reach this class, for when a person "buys" goods, knowing he cannot or will not pay, or if he deliberately steals them, the result is the same, only in the latter case he (the merchant) has some recourse, but in the former he must bear his loss in silence.

The class of which I speak does not include the poor unfortunate, but the so-called "codfish" aristocracy, who pose as wealthy. "ANTI-DISHONESTY."

NEW YORK NEWSPAPER VIEWS

This Morning's Comments on Today's News by the Leading Metropolitan Journals.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15.—The World reprints in full the Post-Dispatch editorial on "Monopolizing Monopolies." It compares the St. Louis combination of public utilities with its possible parallel in New York City and asks: "Is the current of public opinion flowing toward municipal ownership of public utilities, whose depth and breadth and strength make it one of the most striking political portents of the day, the due and inevitable result of a popular uprising against laws which cover gross oppression and injustice?"

The Times thinks that when he comes to naming a new assistant secretary of treasury to succeed Robert Armstrong, just resigned, the President might do well "to remember something that he forgot when he appointed that officer. That is that the place is largely a judicial one. The magistrate who is to render decisions in customs cases should be a good deal of a lawyer and know something about customs. Mr. Armstrong is a bright young man, but it gives a little jar to the imagination to conjure up lawyers of standing equal to of, say James C. Carter, appearing in this court of customs to argue cases before a bright young man."

The House a Figurehead.

The Sun facetiously proposes amendmments to the United States constitution so as to keep that document up to date. It records the routine of a bill "ordered" by the President, in its course through the cabinet and the House, saying: "All is purely formal, so far as the House is concerned. The President orders, the House obeys.

"It will save time and money to withdraw from the House a power which it has. The President should send his bills directly to the Senate.

"If it is worth while to bother with such a piece of old paper, the constitution might be amended to jibe somewhat with reality. Since the House of Representatives choses to be a House of Dummies, why not recognize constitutionally its voluntary divorce from its constitutional functions?

"It would not be worth while to abolish it."

The Sun thinks members of the body could be used to deliver obituary orations and make campaign speeches.

The Herald says: "The American people owe a debt of gratitude to the Senate for defeating President Roosevelt's attempt to become dictator."

Reviewing the recent conflict over arbitration, the Herald continues:

"It is begging the question to cite Mr. Roosevelt's 'good intentions' and patriotism as evidence that there is no danger to the republic in his usurpation of the Senate's prerogatives. Cesar was a patriot animated with good intentions, but he destroyed the Roman republic. Cromwell was a well-intentioned patriot, but the commonwealth under him became a protectorate. Napoleon was a patriot and well intentioned, but he metamorphosed the French republic into an empire.

"Each of these men was ambitious for power, so is Mr. Roosevelt; each was self-confident, so is Mr. Roosevelt; each was dictatorial and impatient of restraint, so is Mr. Roosevelt; each had imperialistic aspirations, so has Mr. Roosevelt.

"In fact, genius apart, wherein does Mr. Roosevelt differ from these great prototypes? He has just received from the Senate a sharp reminder that he is not a dictator, but is not first magistrate of the United States a far more magnificent and noble title? He needed the lesson badly."

Oil and Socialism.

"Socialism's high priest" is the way the World begins an editorial today, which recites the facts in the oil conflict in Kansas. It says:

"There is no private competition in refining oil in Kansas. Private capital dare not compete with the Standard Oil Co. If the state tried to regulate the company it could close its refineries and ruin the producers. There is, then, in Kansas no middle ground between a private monopoly and a public monopoly, between Rockefeller and state socialism. Incorporate greed is becoming the most eloquent of all the priests of socialism. It makes more converts in a day than all the curbstone agitators together can make in a year."

The Brooklyn Eagle discusses "good things," that sad, sweet subject, and reads a lesson many have learned many times. A woman is suing a tout because his "good thing" went the other way. People patronizing turf "experts" who make a business of peddling their opinion of competing horses accept the risk of being swindled by fakirs, in addition to the ordinary risk which attaches to all betting. "Good things" are good things to avoid.

Startling Result.

"I think you told me Miss Thuttyfore was taking elocutionary lessons from Prof. Rantwell."

"So she was, but they came to a sudden stop and the professor has left town."

"What was the trouble?"

"Why, it seems he was showing her how to read the balcony scene in 'Romeo and Juliet' and he did it so naturally that she accepted him before he could stop her."—Chicago Tribune.

WAS JULIET 40?

By Nixola Greeley-Smith, Granddaughter of Horace Greeley.

Written for the Post-Dispatch.

A newspaper dispatch from Verona told yesterday that the House reported to be that of the Capulets, wherein the love of Romeo and Juliet was first kindled, is falling into ruins, and will soon be a thing of the past.

One of life's greatest ironies is that the inanimate participants in its dramas should so long survive the men and women who are merely players; that, for instance, the rose that Juliet presents to Romeo as the first token of their love should so far outlast that love as to make him wonder when he comes across it in a forgotten drawer what it is and why on earth he had kept it so long.

Save for the written record of their lives that makes the world's greatest love story, only a crumbling ruin survives the great drama in which they figured, and soon it will no longer remind us of an outworn romance which we think would have as much place in our day as Juliet's tunic or Romeo's doublet and hose.

For the garments of that forgotten period are less old-fashioned than the sentiments. The modern girl, indeed, would rather take a chance on Juliet's clothes than on her affections; would rather sport an old-fashioned sleeve than wear her heart upon a brand new one, in the old-fashioned manner.

Juliet is as hopelessly archaic as some of the women who used to present her on the stage. It has been said in defense of these ancient Juliets that no girl can portray the passion which Shakespeare attributes to a very young girl, that only a mature woman can play the part. If this assumption were confined to the stage, no one would question it. But the tradition has extended to real life, and perhaps the age of the women who alone feel themselves qualified to play it may account for the present unpopularity of the role. According to some modern ideas, indeed Lady Capulet and not Juliet should have inspired the young Romeo's ardor, for she alone, after 20 years of scolding the servants and adding up the butcher bills, would be capable of understanding and returning it. Perhaps it is not fair to say that there are no more Juliets. There are, but they are all 40 years old. Love and an unmarked brow are no longer consistent. Juliet at 16 goes to school, later into society, later into matrimony. But it is not until, at 35 or so, she has gone into hysterics over a foreign pianist that she believes she has sounded the depths of her nature and is capable of being a Juliet in real life, and for this reason Juliets are no longer interesting except as slippers.

CURLING.

curling is a nice game that was first played in Scotland and my Pa says it was invented by a man naimed C. Roberts or sum name like that. Whenn yu wat to curl yu thro stones around on the ice and yell Soop her Oop and yu ware a cap with a tossel on the cap and yu wear rubbers so yu wont slipp.

My pa curls sumtimes and one time I asked him how long it took to curl and Pa said 2 hours about and Ma said Thenn why doant yu evver git home till 4 in the morning and Pa shut up. I went with Pa one time when he curled and thay was some nice ladies watching them curl and Pa was talking to the ladies and dident do very good curling, whenn I grow up I am going to be a curler and yu jest watch me talk to the ladies too.

riddles is lots of fun. They are questions which yu ask and thenn the people yu ask them to guess the anser if they can. I know 2 good riddles:

1. what goes round the house and doesnt go in the door? A porch climber.

2. when is a street car not a street car? When it is a Owl.

thare is lots of other good riddles too and then thare is ruddle's riddles but when foaks read them thay always say What's the answer and nobody knows. When I think of sum other riddles I will write another essay on them.

A SAPPHIRE PRINCESS

By IVAN WHIN,

Author of "GARTHA," "THE SHADOW CLUE," "BENEDICTA," "THE RISE OF ROSE" and "MYRA."

This Story of Recent Events in the Vicinity of Lafayette Park Will Run in the Post-Dispatch Exclusively From Monday to Sunday Inclusive.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Bertha Filkenburg goes to the Union Club masquerade as a princess in a sapphire gown. Albert Johnson, who is in love with her, goes without her knowledge in an exact duplicate of her costume. He promises to sup at 1 o'clock at Faust's with Drinke, Geltner, Helfenstellar, Pfeiffer, Wray and Buddenstein. The engagements are made separately and each young man is charged with a special menu which Johnson insists shall be provided; the table is to be decorated with smilax, orchids and roses and the orchestra is to be subsidized to play a special program of seven numbers. The six young men make these arrangements for their several suppers, the labor occupying most of the forepart of the night. When Bertha is crowned queen of the revel, Johnson explains to her what he has done. The ardent swains are sent away by him subsequently and meet at Fausts without the queen of the ball. Drinke proposes a plan for revenge and Mae Schuster overhears it. It includes the kidnaping of Bertha. Albert plots with Bertha, her sister Elsa and Mae Schuster, and is kidnaped by Drinke instead of Bertha. Her father is told the story when he reaches home and goes to her room to congratulate her on her escape. He finds that she is not in the house.

CHAPTER III.

Foil and Counterfoil.

MAE SCHUSTER in her haste to leave the card room did not perceive Harry Geltner lingering behind the ardent swains and when they were gone, turned back into the room where they had been plotting. She rushed past him a picture of important news and haste. He looked after her swiftly and as swiftly calculated whence she had come. There was but one other entrance to the card room and that was opposite the door in which he was standing. The drapery at the window was still swaying with the agitation she had imparted when she dashed forth.

He smiled understandingly and followed her quickly. Unknown to Bertha and her friends he was quite near them when their counter-plot was formed. So near that a few words revealed to him what they intended to do. He had been charged by Drinke with the care of Albert Johnson to prevent his interference. He laughed aloud at the thought of this charge and paid no heed to it.

"Drinke is a great plotter," he said. "He takes the girl as his charge and leaves us the work to do. We'll see."

When Mrs. Filkenburg and Bertha emerged from the club escorted by Schuster, Geltner was on the sidewalk. He followed them leisurely to the Filkenburg home and walked twice the full length of Albion Place. Then he mounted the steps and rang the Filkenburg bell. He had considered very carefully three plans of action in case the maid, Mrs. Filkenburg, or Bertha, opened the door. Thus he was cool and unembarrassed when Bertha appeared.

She had not had time to change her gown and the domino still hung to her shoulders.

He laughed gaily. "Ah, Miss Bertha, you fooled us all," he said.

She opened the door widely and laughingly asked him in. "I will call mamma," she said.

"No, don't," he interposed. "Albert is in a mess about his costume. His dresser is gone and he was afraid some of the fellows would follow Elsa if he sent for her, and he asked me to step over here and get you to come and help him."

"Oh, I'll come. Just wait till I tell—"

"Please don't delay, Miss Bertha. The time is so short, and although it's only three blocks I brought a carriage that we might not lose an instant."

As he spoke the carriage ground the curb, the driver leaped down and opened the door.

Bertha wavered an instant and then, closing the door, ran lightly down the steps to the carriage.

"What a rich joke," she murmured. "I'd give lots to be there when those men discover they have kidnaped Albert. O, won't they be mad."

Geltner laughed loudly. "You don't know what a great joke it will be," he said enigmatically.

The horses were going at a great rate. The carriage swayed as the wheels took ruts and stones and hit car tracks in its swift passage.

Geltner told a version of the plot and painted a picture of Helfenstellar and Pfeiffer and Wray and Buddenstein when they discovered how they had been tricked and stood before their smilax canopied orchid-covered tables laughed at by all the attaches of the restaurant. So graphic was his recital that for some moments she forgot the object of their ride.

Suddenly she looked from the carriage window and then turned on her companion.

"Mr. Geltner, where are you taking me? This is Chouteau avenue near Eighteenth."

"It is?" he said, in affected surprise. He leaned out of the window and scanned the flying houses. The carriage had turned into Eighteenth and was going rapidly down hill.

"Tell the driver to stop," cried Bertha. "Make him stop."

"Driver!" called Geltner, vociferously.

The driver did not heed. They flashed by the brewery onto the bridge. He called again and again.

"I can't make him hear," he said, at length.

The window on Bertha's side was closed. She tugged at it, but could not lower it. Then she screamed:

"Stop, driver; stop!"

"Don't do that," he said soothingly. "Wait till we are over the bridge. The noise is so great he can't hear us."

She waited, panting. When they were across the bridge Geltner renewed his attempts to attract the driver's attention. At Clark avenue he succeeded. The driver dismounted and came to the door.

"Where are you taking us?" demanded Geltner, fiercely. "I told you the Union Club."

"Why, that's where you just came from," said the driver. "I thought you meant the Mercantile. You just said the club and I've drove you there so much I thought you meant to go there."

"Silly!" cried Geltner. "Stupid! Don't you know the Mercantile has been closed three hours?"

"Well, I'm sorry, sir," the driver said humbly. There was laughter in his eyes. This little drama had not been rehearsed, but his wits were keen as his words were lax.

"Now drive us right back as quick as you can go," commanded Geltner, sinking back apparently exasperated beyond deeds.

"I'll have to go around the Jefferson avenue way to make it quick," the driver said and mounted his box.

Geltner told a dozen stories of similar mistakes and presently Bertha grew quite calm.

Then the cab stopped. They were in front of a brilliantly lighted building.

"Why are you stopping?" Geltner asked.

"Broke a tug," said the cabbie who descended to mend it.

Geltner checked expression of his own exasperation with the remark. "Why this is the place Drinke and the others are to bring Albert. They've got the room up there in the corner; see all these lights. What do you say, lets run up and see how they've arranged it? How long will you be fixing that tug driver?"

"Five or ten minutes," he answered surlily.

"Come," said Geltner. "They can't get here for some time and we'll have a look."

The joke of the thing appealed to Bertha. "Oh, I'd love to," she said.

They went up stairs and into the long supper room.

Bertha cried out with delight as she saw six small tables each set for two, over each a canopy of smilax and a profusion of roses and orchids ornamenting the center of each. In a corner was an orchestra of six pieces, sleepy men in evening dress who covered their yawns with their hands and took up their instruments, seeing a lady and gentleman enter. Subsidized seven times in one evening they were willing to play if the hour was late.

"Do you know, Miss Bertha," Geltner said persuasively, "we can't get back to dress Albert in time, and, being here, we might as well see the fun."

"Do you think we could?" she almost whispered.

"Easy. See there is another room off here. We'll just have a little something in here and when they come we can look in from behind these curtains and see the whole show."

"Oh, I don't want anything to eat, but I would like to see."

"Well, I'll have to order something to hold the room," he said.

The sliding doors separating the small room from the larger were open and the space was covered by heavy curtains. Geltner closed the doors and ordered supper, bargaining with the waiter privately to prevent the locking of the sliding doors, when the other supper party should arrive.

He devoted himself to the task of entertaining Bertha, and she, all aflush with delight in the climax of the evening's fun, which she had witnessed, forgot all the scruples of time and place and chatted eagerly.

In a surprisingly short time they heard the sound of voices in the other room, and stealing to the doors silently slid them back.

Drinke had arrived and someone was with him. They heard him say:

"Don't be frightened, Miss Bertha. Come, don't cry, there's a good girl. See what a lovely banquet there is spread for you."

Bertha peeked stealthily between the curtains and saw Albert, apparently abandoned to grief, seated at one of the tables, his head on his arms.

Drinke was eyeing the sapphire gown with evident disquiet, although he sang:

Fairest Bertha I adore thee
Weep not, wail not oe'r my fate.

At that moment four of his party entered and a clamor of talk ensued. The orchestra played "Paloma" and the men shouted.

"Wake up, Bertha," said Buddenstein, familiarly shaking Albert's shoulders. "The orchestra has begun your program of music and here come the waiters with your imperial bird's-nest soup."

A waiter also brought champagne and seven glasses were filled.

"Where's Geltner?" asked Helfenstellar.

"I don't know," said Drinke. "He was to take care of Johnson and he may have had trouble."

They laughed carelessly and Geltner ground his teeth.

The men seized the glasses of champagne and Drinke proposed a toast: "To our fair guest."

Then the fair guest lifted his head from his arms and altered his position.

The glasses dropped from five nerveless hands, for they beheld a strange sight. They gaped at the indecorous princess in sapphire whom they had brought thither to humiliate, sitting with feet upon the table, wig and mask off and leering with Albert Johnson's face derisively at them.

"By all the saints," said Buddenstein, hoarsely.

Drinke swept a table in his excited lurch forward.

"What is this?" he asked foolishly. His face was apoplectic.

Helfenstellar leaped upon Johnson with a snarl. "You dog!" he cried.

The curtains parted suddenly and Bertha would have entered but Geltner seized her and placed his hand over her mouth, whispering loudly. "Don't mix in it. Keep still."

Johnson flung Helfenstellar aside with athletic promptness, although the sapphire grown suffered somewhat, and, seizing a rolling champagne bottle, stood on the defensive.

Wray laughed and the crisis was over. He and Pfeiffer and Buddenstein had seized Helfenstellar, whose sudden anger was already evaporating.

"Gentlemen," said Johnson, "you invite a lady to sup with you and give her nothing but an empty bottle."

"Oh, Al, Al," moaned Drinke. "I waste a hundred dollars this night to prove I'm a fool."

"Poor Drinke," cooed Johnson. "Give me a drink and take one yourself. You might as well enjoy it for you'll never be allowed to forget it."

They sat down to the feast a subdued group of lifeless jokers, all save Johnson, who lorded the scene as was his right.

The musicians were murdering Mendelssohn's "Spring Song" between their laughter and weariness. He bade them play livelier airs and directed the waiters so masterfully that presently even Drinke was mollified.

"But where is Geltner?" he cried.

No one had seen him, least of all Johnson, whom he had been set to guard.

At that moment Geltner stepped from the small room with Bertha.

"I was the first to arrive," he announced.

Bertha ran to Johnson sparkling with laughter. "Wasn't it just great?" she said.

Johnson rose at sight of her and his face went white.

"You here!" he said hoarsely, "and with that man."

The laughter died away from her face. She put a pleading hand on his arm. "Albert!" she whispered.

He drew away from her touch, looking coldly beyond her toward Geltner's face, which had taken on a look of apprehension.

Horse Shoes on Asphalt.

"A horse shod with metal shoes should not be driven rapidly on an asphalt pavement," says Popular Mechanics. "The heat produced will not only be painful to the horse, but may seriously injure him. One of our subscribers recently called to relate his experience in driving on asphalt pavement. He was riding horseback in company with a friend, when the two engaged in a friendly race. After they had gone about a mile, his friend's horse threw a shoe. Going back to the place the rider dismounted and picked up the shoe, which was so hot it not only severely blistered his hand, but did not cool so it could be taken up for several minutes. At each step the horse slips a little, and this constant rapid sliding of the metal shoe, under weight, upon the sand contained in the pavement, generated a high degree of heat."

From Appearances.

"It them the Senators?" asked the low-browed and square-jawed individual who surveyed the scene from the gallery at the opening of Congress. "Yes," answered the friend "Well," was the response after some critical examination, "it ain't no wonder every other club in the league beats 'em."—Washington Star.

JUST A MINUTE FOR Post-Dispatch Verse and... Humor

Here He Is: You Know Him.

He reads the papers every day, both going down and back;
Of ordinary breeding, though, he lacks a lot, alack!
If you are seated by him he will throw his arms about
Until he thumps you on the jaw or knocks your eye half out,
Not for a moment thinking you have any wish to read,
Or that you have a paper, too. What! Think of you? Indeed,
He does not care a kiss for you, and at your frowns would scoff,
If he could see your visage when your hat he pushes off,
In case you are in front of him, or musses up your hair,
Which makes you turn upon him with a homicidal air.
Yet what would you accomplish, should you murder him or flog—
This chainless, brainless, mannerless newspaper-street-car hog?

Stories That Went Wrong.—No. 1

THE HOLD-UP.

A citizen had entered a police station to report the fact that he had just been held up by a highway robber.

"How did it happen?" asked the sergeant at the desk.

"I was passing along the south side of the street when the robber stepped out of an alley and"—

"How much did he get?" interrupted the sergeant.

"Sixty cents and a tin watch," replied the citizen.

"Was that all?" asked the sergeant, regarding him suspiciously.

"Yes, sir; he got everything I had."

"Was there no large roll of bills, which the robber overlooked, in your vest pocket?"

"Not a sou," said the citizen. "That robber cleaned me, and he cleaned me good."

"And he didn't overlook a roll of bills?" insisted the policeman.

"Nary a bill," said the man.

"You'd better come back in the morning and talk to the captain," said the sergeant. "I don't believe you seen no robber."

During the Cold Spell.

He rose and left the street car.
He was no rash reformer,
And 'twas with him a point of pride
He was no idle stormer:
He merely wished to get outside,
Where it was warmer.

HEART OF THE FIRE.

From the heart of the fire does the vision rise,
It is good to sit in the after-glow,
While some one's hand in your big one lies,
And nobody there to know.
Ah, golden gleaming its many towers,
The palace ye build, ye twain!
Where two shall dwell thro' the love-lit hours,
In a golden castle in Spain.

Who is it laughs in the dust behind?
Who lurks in the shadows there?
Will the years that are coming to you be kind,
And the end of the dream be fair?
Ah, boy and girl, with the love-lit eyes!
Will the faith and the love remain
When only a crumbling ruin lies—
Your fallen castle in Spain?

Looks Unfair.

It looks decidedly unfair of Cupid to have a different scale of prices for different people. Hoch could step outside his door, whistle three times and get a widow with money, while a Cleveland man is fined $500 for kissing a pretty girl just once.—Chicago News.

WOMAN PRESIDES IN ELECTION CONTEST

Meta Juehne Acts as Notary Public and Stenographer for Contestee Wood.

FIFTH WARD BALLOT COUNT

Coudrey Claims She Can't Cite for Contempt While Wood Holds Otherwise.

When the case of Ernest E. Wood, contested in the Wood-Coudrey Twelfth congressional election contest, opened for the taking of testimony at the office of the Board of Election Commissioners at the City Hall Wednesday forenoon, Miss Meta Juehne presided as notary, in spite of the objection made Tuesday afternoon by the attorneys of Mr. Coudrey, the Republican contestor.

The first thing done was to begin a recount of the ballots cast in the Sixth precinct of the Fifth ward, in an attempt to show that fraudulent votes were cast there. While this precinct has always heretofore returned large Democratic majorities, Wood received only 16 votes there.

Miss Juehne presides over the hearing as a notary public and also as stenographer, for the contestee, Wood. As notary she passes on objections made by counsel for the contestor, Coudrey, to the admissibility of evidence.

It was not necessary for her to be sworn in at the opening of the case for the contestee. She simply showed her commission as a notary.

Objection to her serving was made by the attorneys of Coudrey, on the ground that she is not a voter. Having no power to make the objection effective, they simply had it noted in the record. Wood contends that the notary is not required to be a voter.

The question has also been raised whether she would have the power to commit to confinement for contempt a person who might refuse to testify. Coudrey's attorneys say she would have no such power because it is a federal proceeding and she could not invoke the aid of the state courts to enforce her orders. Wood claims that she would have the same power to commit in this proceeding as any notary in any proceeding.

Miss Juehne understands that she has the right to commit but does not anticipate that the necessity of exercising it will arise.

The congressional act regulating contests directs that each side shall employ a notary and stenographer, but Wood holds that there is nothing to prevent having the same person exercise both functions.

Miss Juehne is a slender, attractive brown-haired girl of 20. She takes a somewhat jocular view of her notarial position in the case.

Wednesday's hearing is being held in the election commissioner's office because John Elspermann, Jr., secretary of the board, is to be the principal witness of the day, and it is necessary to have the hearing where his records can be produced most readily.

Wood expects to strengthen his side by recounting the ballots cast in the Fifth ward, among others.

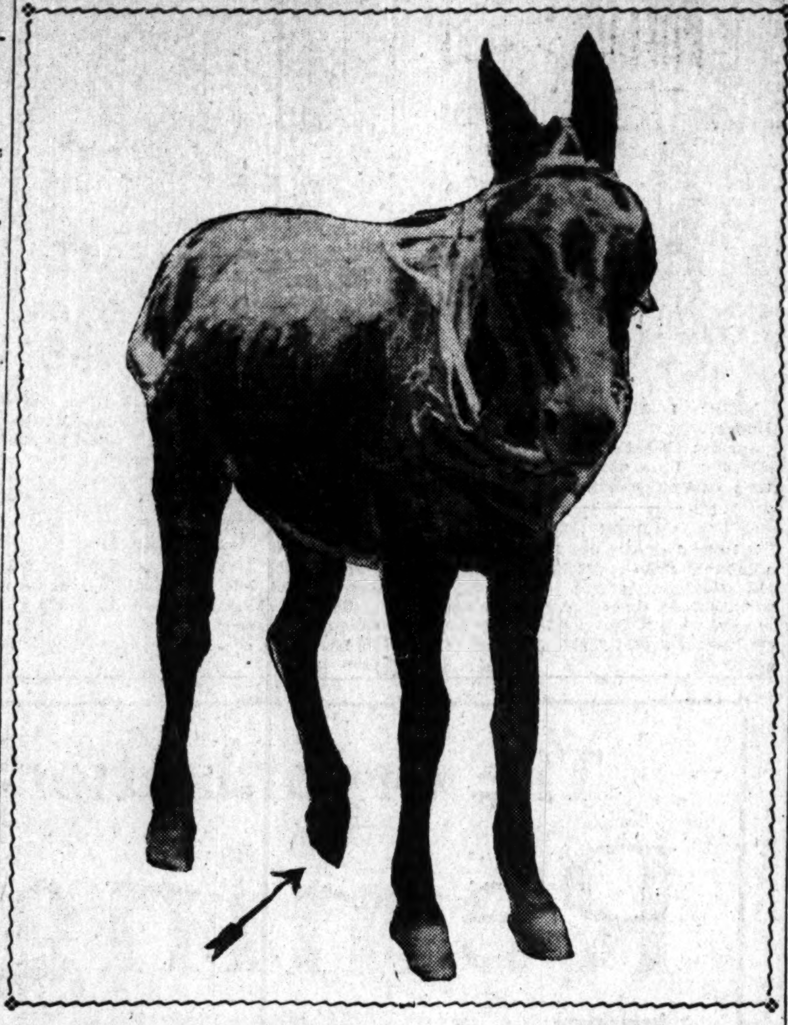
PRIEST'S EFFORTS ARE UNAVAILING

Refusing medical attendance and suffering alone until the priest of her parish took matters in hand and had her sent to an infirmary for treatment, Margaret Schaeffer, 56 years old, living until Monday in a frame cottage on Twenty-second street between Farrar street and Bremen avenue, died Wednesday morning at St. Mary's Infirmary on Papin street.

The old woman had been seriously ill for some time, and her neighbors had vainly entreated her to send for a doctor. Finally they reported the case to Rev. Father Schroeder, of Holy Trinity Church, to whose parish Mrs. Schaeffer belonged, and the priest visited the woman and found her in such serious condition that he called an ambulance and had her sent to the infirmary.

When Undertaker John Koch reported at St. Mary's Infirmary to get the body of Mrs. Schaeffer for burial he was notified that the case was one for the coroner. The sisters stated that the woman was unconscious when brought in, that she had never rallied, and that the coroner must decide as to the cause of death. The body was taken to the morgue, where the post-mortem was held Wednesday afternoon and the inquest Thursday morning. It is stated that Mrs. Schaeffer had a son living on a farm near Ferguson, Mo., and a daughter, a nun, at Altenburg, Ind.

MULE COULDN'T APPEAR, BUT PHOTOGRAPH WON ITS CASE IN COURT



Picture Showed Animal in Piteous Condition From Sore and Crippled Hind Leg, and Judge Tracy Fined Snow Cart Driver $25.

Otto Schneider, driver of a wagon, owned by A. J. Doran, 242 Ashley street, and employed in removing snow from the streets, was fined $25 in the First District Police Court by Judge Tracy, Wednesday morning, on a charge of cruelty to animals.

The prosecuting witness was Robert Hasselback, 3969 Shenandoah avenue, who testified that one of the mules of Schneider's team had on open sore on the left hind quarter and was so badly crippled in the left hind leg that it was unable to do more than barely touch the ground with the left hoof, thus necessitating its moving on three legs.

Hasselback notified the Woman's Humane Society of Missouri by telephone, and Officer J. H. Finnell of the society hurried to Broadway, between Olive and Pine, and arrested Schneider. In the meantime Hasselback had caused a photograph to be taken of the crippled mule, and this photograph was submitted as a part of the evidence.

Judge Tracy said the photograph showed the animal to be in a piteous condition and the $25 fine was imposed accordingly.

The owner of the mule argued that the animal was not unfit to work and offered to produce the mule itself in witness of the fact, but Judge Tracy said that this was unnecessary, as the photograph constituted convincing evidence to the contrary.

ROPE BREAKS AT HANGING---MRS. EDWARDS AND GREASON REPRIEVED

As Drop Falls for Frank Raisinger Cord Snaps, but Victim's Head Strikes Crossbeam and Death Results.

BRIDGETON, N. J., Feb. 15.—Frank Raisinger was hanged here today for the murder of his wife.

The rope broke as the body rebounded and the back of Raisinger's head struck a crossbeam of the scaffold and broke his neck.

Physicians present said death was instantaneous. It was therefore not necessary to raise the body again to the scaffold.

A shudder ran through those who were assembled to witness the hanging as the rope parted and as Raisinger's body fell to the ground. Nearly everyone present turned his head from the grewsome sight.

Sheriff Dement said after the hanging that he was unable to account for the snapping of the cord, as it had been tested with a weight more than 100 pounds heavier than Raisinger's body.

On Recommendation of Board of Pardons Governor Grants Respite for Woman and Negro.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 15.—On recommendation of the board of pardons today, Gov. Pennypacker withdrew death warrants against Mrs. Kate Edwards, white, and Samuel Greason, colored, who were under sentence to hang together at Reading tomorrow for the murder of Mrs. Edwards' husband in 1901.

The case of Greason will now be taken again to the Pennsylvania Supreme court, and if that tribunal refuses to reopen the case the attorneys for Mrs. Edwards and Greason will have to appear before the board of pardons next month.

The Supreme courtroom was crowded with spectators when the board of pardons convened to take up the case. In the crowd were many members of the Legislature and also the Ohio delegation of women who presented a petition with 275,000 names to the governor yesterday in behalf of the condemned woman.

ELECTION VIOLATION WARRANTS OUT

Seventeen Men in Kinney's "Stronghold" Sought by Deputy Sheriffs.

Wednesday morning 17 bench warrants issued against various persons in the Fourth ward, Thomas E. Kinney's stronghold, charging a variety of offenses against the election laws, were placed in the hands of Chief Deputy Sheriff Patrick J. Regan for serving. The warrants were issued from Judge J. B. Withrow's division of the Circuit court and Chief Deputy Sheriff Regan has sent out 12 deputy sheriffs to make the arrests.

Two of the number against whom the bench warrants were issued were arrested Wednesday morning. They are: Louis Zalassi, northeast corner of Seventh and Morgan, charged with putting fraudulent ballots in the ballot box; Thomas Taase, northeast corner Seventh and Morgan, charged with committing an unlawful act to give others an opportunity to vote fraudulently by giving out slips to "repeaters."

The arrests were made by Deputy Sheriffs William Troll and James Pallen.

James Wilson, the colored detective who was arrested Wednesday morning by Deputy Sheriffs Troll and Tatten on a bench warrant charging him with assault to kill, has been suspended by order of Chief of Police Kiely and his star taken away from him by Capt. Reynolds of the Central police district. Wilson attacked Oliver J. Beck, Republican judge of election at the polling place at Fourteenth and St. Charles streets on Nov. 6, last, and beat him over the head with a revolver.

Beck, who was involved in the trouble of Sept. 19, last, that resulted in the killing of Fred Scheel, was late in reaching the polling place on the day of the election and was then informed that another judge had been appointed in his place. In the trouble that followed Wilson strove to eject him from the polling place and in so doing used violence, it is charged. Beck swore out a warrant against him, charging him with assault to kill.

CUT IN CHEEK LEADS TO ARREST

Mrs. Adams, Who Hit Footpad With Iron Savings Bank, Believes Prisoner Is Assailant.

Mrs. D. S. Adams of 714 North Fifteenth street, East St. Louis, who routed a negro footpad last Friday evening by striking him in the face with a little iron savings bank which she was carrying in her hand, on Wednesday identified Raphael Woodson, colored, as being, to the best of her knowledge and belief, the man who had attempted to rob her.

Woodson is 19 years old and lives at 1211 North Second street, East St. Louis. He was arrested Monday by Detectives Yowell and Morrissy, who noticed the cut on his face, on a warrant sworn out before Justice McKane. Following Mrs. Adams' identification of him he was held under $500 bond on the charge of attempted highway robbery and his case will come to trial Feb. 18.

Woodson has a bruised and cut right cheek, near the nose, and Mrs. Adams believes that the injury was inflicted by the iron savings bank with which she struck her assailant.

She is a missionary worker and was on her way to church when, at the intersection of Tenth street and the Southern Railway tracks a colored man halted her and attempted to rob her. She struck him in the face with the iron bank and caused him to take flight.

NOT A PATENT MEDICINE

Hyomei, the Guaranteed Catarrh Cure, Prescribed by Physicians.

No one should confound Hyomei with the patent medicines that are advertised to cure catarrh. It is as far superior to them all as the diamond is more valuable than cheap glass. Their composition is secret, but Hyomei gives its formula to all reputable physicians.

Its base is the valuable eucalyptus oil, famous for its antiseptic qualities. This is combined with aromatic and healing gums and balsams, making a pure liquid, which when used in the Hyomei pocket inhaler, fills the air you breathe with germ-killing, disease-destroying and healing powers that kills all catarrhal germs there may be in the throat, nose and lungs.

How foolish it is to try and cure catarrh by swallowing tablets or liquids. The only natural way to cure this disease and all other diseases of the respiratory organs is to breathe Hyomei.

This treatment has been so successful, curing 99 per cent of all who have used it, that Hyomei is now sold by Wolff-Wilson or Judge & Dolph under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure. You run no risk whatever in buying Hyomei. If it did not possess unusual powers to cure, it could not be sold upon this plan.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs $1.00 and comprises an inhaler, a bottle of Hyomei and a dropper. The inhaler will last a lifetime; and additional bottles of Hyomei can be obtained for 50 cents.

WONDERFUL CURE OF SORE HANDS

By Cuticura After the Most Awful Suffering Ever Experienced

EIGHT DOCTORS

And Many Remedies Failed to do a Cent's Worth of Good

"I was troubled with sore hands, so sore that when I would put them in water the pain would nearly set me crazy, the skin would peel off and the flesh would get hard and break. There would be blood flowing from at least fifty places on each hand. Words could never tell the suffering I endured for three years. I tried everything, but could get no relief. I tried at least eight different doctors, but none did me any good, as my hands were as bad when I got through doctoring as when I began. I also tried many remedies, but none of them ever did me one cent's worth of good. I was discouraged and heart-sore. I would feel so bad mornings, to think I had to go to work and stand the pain for ten hours, I often felt like giving up my position. Before I started to work I would have to wrap every finger up separately, so as to try and keep them soft, and then wear gloves over the rags to keep the grease from getting on my work. At night I would have to wear gloves; in fact, I had to wear gloves all the time. But thanks to Cuticura, that is all over now.

CURED FOR 50c.

"After doctoring for three years, and spending much money, a 50c. box of Cuticura Ointment ended all my sufferings. It's been two years since I used any, and I don't know what sore hands are now, and never lost a day's work while using Cuticura Ointment."

WHEN we say diamonds on credit we mean to the man who don't happen to have the money to hand over for one; we will hand the diamond over to any honest man or woman who we believe to be acting in good faith and let them pay us in small monthly or weekly payments; we do not look at a man's responsibility—in fact, it cuts no figure with us; we simply want to know this—if we adjust the payments so that he can easily meet them out of his earnings will he act in good faith and meet them? Ask yourself the question, then you will know whether your credit is good for a diamond; we do business confidentially, making every transaction a matter of personal honor between our customer and ourselves; security, indorsers and guarantors are never thought of, much less mentioned; another thing, we create no publicity and do not make any inquiries from employers; drop in and let us show you how good your credit is. Open until 6:30 every day; Saturdays until 10 p. m.

GRAIN MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—Renewed covering of the May delivery by shorts caused a firm tone in the wheat market here today. The active demand for the May option had a buoyant effect on the price of distant futures, partially counteracting the influence of liberal selling of July by commission houses. May opened unchanged to ⅜c higher at $1.18 to $1.18⅜. After selling up to $1.18¾ the price settled back to $1.18⅛. July opened a shade to ⅛@¼c higher at $1.01⅞ to $1.02, advanced to $1.02⅜ and then reacted to $1.01½. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 308 cars.

Selling by cash houses and local longs had a weakening influence on the corn market. May opened ⅛ to ⅜@½c lower at 46⅞@⅞c to 47⅛c, and held around 46⅞c. May oats opened unchanged to a shade lower at 31⅛c to 31⅛@31¼c, and eased off to 31@31⅛c. In provisions May pork was off 2½c at $12.87½. Lard and ribs also were each down 2½c at $6.95 and $6.87½.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 15.—Spot wheat nominal; futures quiet; March, 7s ⅞d; May, 6s 11⅞d; July, 6s 11⅛d. Spot corn firm; American mixed new, 4s 2d; American old, 4s 11⅛d; futures quiet; March, 4s 1⅜d; May, 4s 2⅜d.

JOHN W. GATES PREDICTS $1.50

CORN SHOWS WEAKNESS

Foreign Markets Lose Their Strength of Yesterday—Receipts Are Small.

Manipulataion had complete control, apparently, in the speculative market for wheat. Legitimate conditions had no standing, the bearish attitude of foreign markets and bearish cash conditions in domestic markets being more than offset by a prediction by John W. Gates of the Wall Street syndicate that wheat would at $1.50. The market that interest controls acted as though it had a case of nervous shorts covering and the screws being put to them. At close the May option in Chicago was 3¼c over that option in St. Louis, where legitimate conditions more regarded. The cash demands here were poor enough to make theselves adversely felt. Foreign markets showed utter indifference to American speculative booms. Coarse grains were not so bullishly inclined as they have been recently, but they made a firm close. Receivers noted more corn offered by the country and there was no evidence that foreigners were after supplies. Cash markets for both corn and oats were strong, but demands limited.

WHEAT—A prediction for $1.50 wheat by John W. Gates, who appeared to be the barker for the Wall street syndicate, must have created a frenzy among some of the shorts who had held on during previous advances, for all domestic markets were on the rise at the opening. Outside of light receipts—17,100 bu in here, against 125,100 bu one year ago, and 192 cars in the Northwest, against 268 cars—and the prediction, there was nothing bullish in sight. Foreign markets had paid no attention to yesterday's advance of over 1c in this country. Liverpool opened ⅛d higher, but this on unseasonable weather in India and very firm offers from the Argentine, but later declined ¼d owing to general dullness and scalpers realizing. Paris was dull at ¼c decline.

May opened ¼c higher at $1.16¾, sold quickly up to $1.17 and $1.17⅛ was bid, the urgent demands then ceasing causing a relapse to $1.16½. July sold ⅛@¼c higher at 97¾c and later offered at 97⅝@97⅞c.

A reaction to $1.16⅝ bid for May and 97⅝@97¾c for July followed a rally in Chicago and other markets, but again weakened to $1.16½ for former and 97⅝c for July before noon hour. Bradstreet's world's visible showed 782,000 bu increase last week, against 217,000 bu increase a year ago. Closing cables reported declines for day of ⅛@¼d at Liverpool, ½c at Paris ⅜c at Budapest, ¼c advance at Berlin and unchanged at Antwerp.

Primary receipts were 285,000 bu, against 683,000 bu one year ago, and shipments 167,000 bu, against 383,000 bu last year.

A choppy market was seen during balance of the session, but with no such advances here as in Chicago, where manipulation in control. May did not sell above $1.16⅞ and dropped back to $1.16⅝, closing at $1.16⅝. July went up to 97⅞@98c and closed at 97⅝@97¾c sellers. For September 93⅝c bid. Clearances of wheat and flour were 32,800 bu.

Cash market—Firmer, with hard winter higher, but demands very small, both milling and to store. Sales from store, 2 cars No. 2 red at $1.18½ f. o. b., 5000 bu white winter p. t. By sample delivered—No. 2 red sold at $1.18@1.19 East side; No. 3 red at $1.14@1.16½; No. 4 nominally 96c@$1.12, selling at $1.06@1.09; No. 2 hard nominally $1.14@1.15; No. 3 hard sold at $1.09½@1.13; No. 4 at 95c@$1.07; No. 3 white spring at $1@1.05; No. 4 spring at 79c.

CORN—Receipts were so much larger in Chicago than expected, 306 cars having come in where 175 cars estimated, that prices weakened in that market. Our market was affected thereby, though only 49,000 bu in here, against 81,000 bu a year ago. May opened 1-16c better at 45⅝c and sold off to 45⅜c. July had 46⅜c bid and later offered at that. Liverpool advanced ⅜@½d, due to firm and higher American markets, but eased off ⅛@¼c on importers selling.

May was offered at 45¼@45⅜c, but no sales during balance of forenoon below 45⅜c.

July opened at 46⅜c and sold off to 46¼c. A large decrease in available supplies reported by Bradstreet's. Liverpool closed unchanged to ⅛d lower.

An advance to 45½@45⅝c was made subsequently on stronger markets elsewhere and closed at that. July was offered at 46⅛@46¼c and later 46⅜c bid. Clearances were 675,000 bu.

Cash market—Higher owing to small offerings, as demand not so good. By sample delivered, No. 2, at 46½c, No. 3 at 45½c, No. 4 at 44½c, No. grade (poor) at 36c, No. 2 yellow at 47c and seed 48c, No. 3 yellow at 46c, No. 2 white at 47c and seed 47½c, No. 3 white at 46@46½c, yellow ear at 49@50c.

OATS—Weakness in corn had an unfavorable effect and the best bid for May was 31¼c, but no sellers at that. Receipts were 14,850 bu, against 63,450 bu one year ago.

Later in the forenoon May sold at 31¼c. A large decrease in available supplies reported by Bradstreet's. Primary receipts were 322,000 bu, against 678,000 bu a year ago, and shipments 168,000 bu, against 310,000 bu last year.

Later in the day May was bid up to 31⅝c and had no sellers at that.

Cash Market—Better and firm; demand entirely local, but offerings light. From store No. 3 white sold loaded at 33c. By sample delivered—No. 2 at 32½@33c; No. 3 at 32c; No. 4 at 31@31½c; No. 2 white nominally 34c; No. 3 white at 32¾@33½c; No. 4 white at 31@32½c.

Trade Topics.

Flour sellers generally speak of a somewhat better business, but they also say the prices they have to accept are most unsatisfactory. From the hard luck stories told regarding recent flour sales there must be something in these stories. During latter part of October, when No. 2 red wheat was selling at $1.18 to $1.18½ on track, just the rates it sold at yesterday, soft winter patents in bulk brought $5.15 readily and straights $5.00. Sales have recently been made at $5.15 for patents and $4.75 for straights. When it is considered that the prices paid last October showed little or no profit, it is plainly to be seen there was no money in these latest sales. It is not altogether soft winter products that are selling at poor prices. A lot of Nebraska hard winter flour had to be sold at $3.95, after being held for some time on track. A short time before the same flour sold at $4.25.

Calls on overcoats and puts on earmuffs were in urgent demand on 'Change this morning. The management had a wrong tip on the weather and the big hall was prepared for warm temperatures. The only way to warm up was to get next to a member who was expressing his opinion on the management.

FLOUR—Very moderate domestic demands and none at all from abroad. Sales when made are at very close prices and in the case of soft winters at a loss. Most buying is of hard winters. Quotations as follows: Soft wheat flour, wood, high patent, $5.30@5.50; special brands, $5.60@5.75; second patent, $5.15@5.35; extra fancy, $4.85@5; clear, $4.40@4.60; low and medium grade, ute sacks, $3.10@3.75. Hard winter wheat flour, in ute sacks, patent, $4.90@5.10; straight, $4.70@4.80; first clear, $4@4.25; second clear, $3.25@3.60; low grade, $2.70@3. Rye flour—Wood, $4@4.10; ute sacks, $3.75@3.85. Cornmeal, $2.40. Pearl meal, grits and hominy, $2.70.

RYE—Steady and the little offered selling readily. No. 2 at 81c local and 82c destination; No. 3 at 80c.

MILLFEED—Firm undertone, as offerings small; none at all from the West, but light demand as the East well supplied and not buying. Market basis east track and in 100s bran at 82@83c; mixed feed at 83@85c; mids at 82@95c, according to quality. Bran in 100s east side direct at 89c. At mill, bran jobs at 88@90c and ships at $1@1.05.

HAY—Business still interfered with by the severe cold and the bad hauling. Best grades principally sought after. East track—Timothy $12 for choice, $10.50@11.50 for No. 1, $8@9.50 for No. 2; $6@7.50 for low grades. Clover, $13@13.50 for No. 1, $10@11.50 for No. 2, $8@9 for low grade. Clover-mixed, $10.50@11 for No. 1, $9@9.50 for No. 2. Prairie, $9.50 for choice $8.50@9 for No. 1; $7@8 for No. 2; $5@6 for low grades.

FLAXSEED—St. Louis—Steady at $1.16½ bid spot or to arrive, prompt shipment.

Chicago—Northwestern, $1.25 bid; southwestern, $1.17½ bid; May, $1.21 bid.

Duluth—May, $1.27 bid.

Minneapolis—Cash, $1.25¼.

PORK—New standard mess, f. o. b., jobbing, nominally at $12.15.

LARD—Choice steam, east side, nominally 6.42½c; kettle-rendered, 6⅞c.

D. S. MEATS—To arrive, loose cure c'ribs closed nominally at 40@45c; average, 6.80c; 50-average, 6.77½c c. a. f. Boxed lots, jobbing: Extra shorts, 6⅞c; c'ribs, 6⅞c; short clear, 7c; bellies, 7½@8c; plates and fat backs, 5⅝c; standard backs, 7c. Higher on orders.

BACON—Boxed s. c. meats, jobbing: Breakfast bacon, 9c for heavy to 12c for choice light; hams, 9½@10c. California hams, 6½c. New York shoulders, 6½c; plain smoked boxed lots jobbing: Extra shorts, 7⅝c; c'ribs, 7½c; short clear, 7⅝c; bellies, 8¼@9c; plates and fat backs, 6½c; standard backs, 7⅝c. Higher on orders.

COUNTRY LARD—5@5½c per pound.

OLEOSTEARINE—Nominal at 6¼@6⅜c.

TALLOW—Country, 3½@3⅝c for No. 2 to 4⅜@4⅝c for No. 1. Packers' prime, 5c.

GREASE—Brown, 3c; yellow, 3¼@3⅝c, and white, 4@4¼c; latter for choice.

LEAD—Firmer in tone and better demand. Sale of 100 tons ordinary Missouri at $4.35 and that bid. Special brands held higher.

DONOVAN COMMISSION CO. ON THE MARKETS.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 15.—Wheat is getting the strong-arm hold-up. This is a Chicago invention and is mighty popular on cold, dark nights. The May shorts are having some cold, dark days at present. It looks as if the Gates-Hill-Schwab, Reid crowd was doing the rush act to clean up all the shorts they can, in the meantime unloading some of that load they are carrying for $1.50. You can bet it won't be $1.50 they will wait for. They will let the other fellows who catch on to their band wagon do the waiting for that—and the walking, too. The gang have a good grip on and they are squeezing outthe little shorts, but whether they can do the act on the big fellows is different. As soon as the people get out that they can reach I expect to see a down slide and a shakeout of the tailers. That's why I would sell on these booms. The shortage in corn prices has cut down cash demands and is drawing it from the country. That is a combination that should give the bull side a jolt. It will do to play for a rise on any good break, but would right now play for a dip. This dose goes with oats.

WINTER ECZEMA

Gentlemen:—I suffered with Eczema on the hands and face for over a year. It was not only annoying and painful, but very unsightly, and I disliked to go out in the streets. I tried at least a dozen soaps and salves, which did me absolutely no good, and became very much discouraged, until I read in the papers of the cures performed through the use of S. S. S., and determined to give it a month's trial at least. I am pleased to state that I soon noticed a slight improvement, sufficient to decide me to keep it up. After the use of six bottles my skin was as soft and smooth as an infant's. This was a year ago, and I have never had any trouble since. MISS GENEVA BRIGGS.

216 S. Seventh Street, Minneapolis, Minn.

I tried doctor's medicines, salves, washes and all kinds of local applications, treating Eczema of long standing, but with only temporary relief. The itching and burning from Eczema was more than I can describe. Many nights I was unable to sleep on account of the awful itching. Seeing S. S. S. advertised I began its use, and after taking it for some time the dry eczematous eruptions disappeared and I was entirely relieved of this awful itching and burning. It is a boon to Eczema sufferers and I can conscientiously recommend it to them, believing confidently that a permanent cure will be effected in all such cases where it is taken according to directions.

Urbana, Ohio. R. F. D. No. 1. C. OTTO.

All skin diseases have their seasons; some are active in the summer, while others lie dormant until cold weather, when the first breath of winter brings them to life and they remain to torment us until spring. Through the long hot months Winter Eczema sleeps in the system, and when cold weather begins it breaks out. The head, hands and feet are the parts usually attacked, but other parts of the body may be affected by this "flesh fire." The skin becomes feverish, hard and dry, cracks open and often bleeds, and the itching is terrible. While the trouble shows on the skin the cause is far deeper. This eruption is but nature's way of telling that the fountain of all health—the blood—is diseased and must have relief. It is filled with uric acid and other poisons which are forced through the pores, causing the natural oils, which should keep the skin soft and pliable, to dry up. These acids are constantly forming in the system to be absorbed by the blood, and thus the trouble is kept up. The treatment of this disease with local applications, such as washes, salves, powders, etc., is useless in effecting a cure, because they cannot get to the seat or beginning of the trouble. The best they can do is to give the patient relief for a little while. The blood must be cleansed of all acids and poisons and the system toned and built up before a cure can be had. S. S. S. cures by going into the blood, searching out all foreign matter, and making it strong and healthy again. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable remedy, and therefore cures this disease safely as well as surely, and from a condition of torture the patient is brought to one of healthful pleasure. Book on Skin Diseases mailed free, and our physicians will give advice, without charge, to all sufferers.

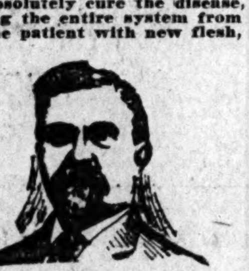
DR. DUFF'S SCIENTIFIC, COMPLETE, LIFE-LONG CURE FOR

BLOOD POISON

My Serum Specific Treatment for Blood Poison is the only Remedy known to absolutely cure the disease, removing every trace of poisonous taint and rebuilding the entire system from the damaging effects of Mercury and Potash, leaving the patient with new flesh, new blood, new bones and in perfect health.



CHAS A. DUFF, M. D.

I am a Blood Poison Specialist, Not a Pretentious "Cure All."

My method of curing Blood Poison is by a Specific Serum that I introduce into the blood by subcutaneous injection and internally and by its antagonism to the virus of blood poison the taint is ejected from the body as well as the counteraction and removal of any mercury and potash poisoning. My serum treatment reorganizes the corpuscles of the blood, disorganizes, neutralizes and expels all poison from the system, and the corpuscles are renewed with fresh, pure blood, which supplies the tissues that rebuild the entire human organism, so that the whole body is restored to its normal size, strength and soundness. I can offer no better evidence of the reliability that I claim for Specific Serum than the many I have cured, some of them bedfast, body a shield of blood-poison sores, loss of eyesight, hair and eyebrows, or some vital organ, locomotor ataxia, and apparently doomed; and after completing my course of treatment they are entirely cured, robust and healthy, without a symptom ever recurring at any time. The positive effects of Specific Serum are noticeable immediately, as the hair resumes its growth, all manifestations of the disease disappear, the patient begins to increase in weight, by the addition of sound, healthy flesh; the skin gets clear and rosy by being supplied with poisonless blood, and in ordinary cases in one month after commencing the victim feels that his burden of disease is lifted. It drives the poison out of the bones, so that all aches and pains are no more.

CURE OR NO CHARGE.—Absolutely no charge unless satisfaction is given. My patients receive an instrument of writing, insuring them of every dollar paid for services refunded in case of failure to completely cure in a specified length of time, so that the disease will never return and render entire satisfaction, and my well-known financial standing is sufficient evidence to anyone that I am entirely responsible for any guarantee that is not fulfilled.

Consultation Free, Confidential and Invited, both at office and by correspondence. Terms are always made to suit the convenience of anyone applying for treatment, and very reasonable charges. Do not treat elsewhere until you have investigated my methods and terms. Office hours during week, 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. Sundays, 9 to 1.

"GRANDMA" OF ALL THE CHILDREN DIES AFTER LIFE OF GOOD CHEER

Little Mourners Will Crowd Good Shepherd Church at Mrs. Broadbent's Funeral.

FLOCK ALWAYS ABOUT HER

Never Tired of Hearing Her Tell Them English Fairy Lore Tales.

MRS. ANN BROADBENT

Grandma Broadbent is dead. This sad message whispered from one to another has brought grief to the children of Shenandoah avenue and South Eighteenth street, and in all the neighborhood, for Mrs. Broadbent's death is a personal loss to them. She was grandma to them all, and known in the neighborhood by the name.

Childish mourners will crowd the Good Shepherd Church Thursday afternoon when the funeral is held there.

Mrs. Ann Broadbent of 2318 South Eighteenth street, "Grandma Broadbent," was 81 years old when the end of her long self-sacrificing life came Tuesday morning.

She had lived in St. Louis and on South Eighteenth street for 18 years, and had petted every child in the neighborhood. When she appeared on the street, and that was each day, for she was lively until her final illness, the children would flock about her. She had a cooky or a piece of candy for each one.

The groceryman, who knew of her expectant flock, saw that she was well provided with goodies, after she had done the marketing for the house.

During the long summer evenings children would swarm about her doorstep and listen until tired eyes could no longer resist slumber, while grandma told wonderful English folklore tales.

How they would thrill while she recounted the adventures of bold Robin, how they would laugh as they heard the story of Friar Tuck's mad pranks.

"Grandma Broadbent" knew children so well. She reared 17, and aided in the rearing of grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

She was born at Oldham, Lancashire, England, in the great cotton-spinning district. When the civil war closed the Southern ports her husband, Joseph Broadbent, a cotton worker, was forced to migrate to America to earn money for his family. He died in the service of the United States government, leaving his widow and eight sons in England.

"Grandma Broadbent" reared them all and then took charge of the nine children of her dead sister, Mrs. William Hanson.

All the children are grown now, and have children of their own. To all Grandma Broadbent remained a comfort, and revered.

For 18 years she has made her home with her sons, John M. and Robert, at their home, 2318 South Eighteenth street.

Last week she caught cold, while busy at some chores in the yard. Bronchitis developed and caused her death.

This was the first serious illness she had ever suffered. Her hale health was inherited. James Wright, her father, lived to be 85 years old, and her mother died at the age of 82.

Their sturdy yeoman stock survived in her and her descendants.

The interment will be in St. Matthew's Cemetery after services at the home and Good Shepherd Church.

Go to Laughlin's, 7th and Locust, for good things to eat. After theater service a specialty.

COAT TAILS DECIDE RACE FOR BABY

Father Running Away With It Caught by Garment Sailing Behind Him.

A year-old baby was the prize in a Union Station footrace Tuesday night, in which a husband, a wife and a mother-in-law participated.

The mother-in-law won.

The race started shortly after 9 o'clock, while the baby's mother, Mrs. Charles Frase, and her father and mother, George Tudor and wife, were at a ticket window buying railroad tickets for Sacramento, Cal.

Charles Frase, the baby's papa, came up. He asked to be allowed to hold the baby a little while and kiss it good-by.

As soon as the baby was safely in his arms, Frase gave a yell of triumph and started to run.

Mrs. Frase screamed. Mrs. Tudor, shouting, "Here, you, come back with that baby," abandoned the suitcases and bandboxes and started after Frase and the baby. Mrs. Frase went with her. So did a score or more of men and women in the waiting room.

As he went through the Market street door, Mrs. Tudor was abreast of him and Mrs. Frase was close enough behind to makes a grab at his coat tails. Mrs. Frase caught the coat tails and Mrs. Tudor caught the baby.

There was a tug of war for a minute, but Frase was out-matched and outgeneraled and had to yield. Before he could change front and become the attacking party, Policeman Combs came on the scene and took the contract to preserve the peace.

Frase remained outside; Mrs. Tudor, holding the baby in her arms and defiantly declaring she "would like to see him try to get this child again," marched back into the waiting room; close behind her came the baby's mother.

"My daughter and the man who just tried to take her baby," said Tudor, who had not joined in the chase, "were married about two years ago. He did not treat her right, and she came back home to us. We decided to take her and the baby with us to Sacramento.

"Her husband wanted to go along, also, and wanted me to buy his ticket. We couldn't see it that way and told him we wouldn't do it. Then he tried to take the baby as you saw. He didn't get it."

Tudor, who is a railroad engineer, his wife and their daughter and her baby have been living at 1801 South Ninth street. After the chase they took a train for California.

KNIFE MAY SAVE PRESIDENT HARPER

Head of University Thought Near Death and Members of Family Summoned.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—President Harper of the University of Chicago is dangerously ill with an intestinal disease. He will undergo an operation Feb. 18, and it is feared that he may not survive the shock.

Samuel Harper, a son, who has been spending the winter in Moscow, will arrive in New York today. Robert Harper, who has been in Constantinople, is in mid-ocean. John D. Rockefeller is expected tomorrow.

Five noted surgeons, Dr. Nicholas Senn, Frank Billings, Arthur D. Bevan, Ludwig D. Hekton and E. R. Lecount, have been in conference for six months and as yet have been unable to definitely diagnose the disease. It is believed the disease is thickening of the large intestine near the colon.

Old people stooped with suffering.
Middle age, courageously fighting.
Youth protesting impatiently.
Children unable to explain.
Baby crying, can't tell why.
All in misery from their kidneys.
Only a little backache first.
Comes when you catch a cold.
Or when you strain the back.
Backache is the first step to kidney trouble.
Many complications follow.
Urinary disorders, diabetes, Bright's disease.
Doan's Kidney Pills cure backache.
Cure every form of kidney ills.
Plenty of St. Louis proof that this is so.

Mrs. Henry Koglin of 1930 Warren street, 18th ward says: "My son had rheumatism and for 11 weeks was unable to work, most of the time being confined to his bed. It attacks his knees and ankles. In addition to this he continually complained of a pain in the small of his back and sometimes all over the body. Reading on more than one occasion about Doan's Kidney Pills being a remarkable remedy to use in case of kidney troubles, induced me to go to 'Wolff-Wilson's' for a box. He improved under the treatment and a continuation so greatly benefited him that he returned to work. At the present time he is in good health."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, sole agents for the United States.

LOST—Good Eyesight; Reward will be

Good eyesight can be again found if you find just the right eyeglasses—those that strengthen the eyes as well as the sight. To be sure of this you need to consult BOTH oculist and optician. You can consult both here. I hold state certificates as both Oculist and Optician, with full power of a regular practicing physician.

Bring this ad THIS WEEK and $1 and we'll fit you with a pair of Moritz Multiplex Pebble Lenses in any style frame.

TAFT IS IN FAVOR OF ARMY CANTEEN

Secretary of War Holds Present Condition Conducive to Drunkenness Among Soldiers.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—"I think a great majority of army officers regard the anti-canteen amendments likely to increase rather than decrease drunkenness in the ranks," is the judgent of Secretary of War Taft.

"I must admit that, as at present advised, I share their opinion."

The secretary's expression was brought out by a letter from Congressman Littlefield of Maine, regretting that army officers seem prejudiced against the anti-canteen act.

Money Received for the Poor.

Mrs. G. Lacy Crawford of 4251 West Pine boulevard sends to the Post-Dispatch her check for $10 to help the poor during the cold weather. From C. E. W., $1 has been received for "coal for the poor."
